Is Ohio Going Dry Again?

IS OHIO going dry again? Take a look at this map. The drys won still more territory in the last local option elections. But none of the populous centers is touched. Nearly 16 percent of the population—or approximately 1,350,000 persons—now are unable to buy intoxicating liquors in their subdivisions.

DETROIT POLICE SEEKING GIRL, 18, MISSING IN CITY

DETROIT, Nov. 13—(UP)—Police of the special investigation squad reported today they were searching for 15 year old Marjorie Mitchell who disappeared a few hours after she had arrived here with her parents and sister from their Polson, Mont., home last night. No trace of the girl has been found, police said.

Marjorie disappeared when she left the parked family automobile, announcing she was going to a nearby service station. She did not reach the station, authorities discovered.

The family had driven to Detroit in search of employment for the father, Willard. With him was his wife, and their two daughters, Marjorie and Imogene, 14.

Late yesterday afternoon Mitchell located a friend in this city. He drove to the friend's home where the family waited for him in their car.

During Mitchell's visit, Marjorie left the machine and disappeared.

STATE CENTERS SHERIFF'S TRIAL ON DYING WORDS

C. E. Holzer, Surgeon, Says Lafa Williamson Blamed Fowler For Attack

OTHERS TO TESTIFY

Blackjack Named Death Instrument

POMEROY, Nov. 13—(UP)—The state called additional medical witnesses today in an effort to prove that Lafa Williamson, Republican leader, in a deathbed statement, named Roscoe G. Fowler, suspended sheriff, as his assailant, following a dance at the Eagles Club last June.

Dr. Charles E. Holzer, chief surgeon at the Holzer Hospital where Williamson was confined, told the court yesterday that the Republican leader told him several days after he was admitted: "Doe, Fowler, the... finally got me."

The state charges Williamson died from a blackjack blow dealt by Fowler. He died about three weeks after he was found unconscious in front of the Eagles club.

PAINTINGS, OTHER VALUABLES BURN IN BOWES HOME

MILLWOOD, N. Y., Nov. 13—(UP)—Fire Chief Walter Deems investigated today the cause of the fire that destroyed "Laurel Hill," the 10-room residence of Major Edward Bowes, theatre and radio impresario, which contained a number of valuable art works.

More than 100 paintings were destroyed. Servants said the fire started in a chimney. It spread so quickly that it was out of control before apparatus arrived from Ossining, N. Y. Bowes was not at home.

Deems estimated the loss at $50,000, not including the furnishings.

HOODED OUTLAW APPEARS AGAIN IN NORTHERN OHIO

TIFFIN, Nov. 13—(UP)—The mysterious, elusive "hooded bandit" whose territory is northwestern Ohio held up a gasoline station here early today, forcing Edward Kuhn, the attendant, to empty the contents of the cash drawer into a sugar sack.

He escaped with $15.

At the point of a shotgun, Kuhn was forced to rip the telephone from the wall.

The bandit, who wears a burlap sack over his head, had robbed two gasoline stations here a month ago.

POLICE CITE DANGERS OF ROAD BARRICADE THEFTS

Theft of three lanterns from barricades was reported by police Saturday. Officers said they were taken from barricades in an alley near the Palace restaurant.

Two Killed, 34 Escape In Indiana Mine Blast

PRINCETON, Ind., Nov. 13—(UP)—Two miners were killed and a third burned seriously by a gas explosion which ripped through a King's Station company mine early today and imprisoned 34 other workers for three hours.

The survivors groped their way two miles through lethal fumes and debris-strewn corridors to the shaft and safety.

Rescue workers aided them after they reached the shaft. The dead were identified as Fount Thompson, 30, Francisco, Ind., and Roger Williams, 35, Princeton. Doyle McCandless, 35, was brought to the surface by rescue workers. His condition was critical.

STEAMER SENDS SOS IN OCEAN

Greek Ship Is Believed Off Cape Hatteras; Signals Heard

BOSTON, Nov. 13—(UP)—A series of S. O. S. signals, the last at 4:30 a. m. came from the Greek steamer Tzeachandry today.

Coast guards were informed of the distress calls through the radio marine-station WSC at Tuckerton, Long Island. The ship failed to give position or any other information.

The ship was believed to be in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13—(UP)—MacKay radio early today picked up S. O. S. calls from steamship Tzeachandry in distress off the Atlantic coast.

The steamer gave no details of her plight. At 3:20 a. m. she reported having been "in distress" for an hour.

MacKay reported shore stations evidently had been unable yet to contact her in reply.

After 45 minutes of futile effort to reach the boat with a reply from powerful land stations, MacKay said, normal wireless traffic was ordered to resume. The air (Continued on Page Eight)

WIDOW DEMANDS $50,000 DAMAGES IN ELIXIR DEATH

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 13—(UP)—Mississippi valley's first damage suit charging death resulting from the use of elixir of sulfanilamide was on file in circuit court here today.

Mrs. Mayme Welch Miller charged that elixir purchased from the Fox Drug Co., Inc., of Bristol, Tenn., caused the death of her 25-year-old husband, C. W. Miller, on Oct. 20. She asked $50,000 damages.

The suit blamed diethylene glycol, used as the solvent, for causing the chemical reaction which made the prescription lethal. It further stated that Miller died in a hospital 11 days after taking the drug.

Jury's Method of Deciding Damage Action Judgment Upheld By Court

Motion for a new trial in the suit of Homer Kidwell, Darby township, against H. C. McPherson, of Pherson, involving the allegation that a Common Pleas court jury made a damage award by lot and not by consideration of the evidence submitted, was overruled Saturday by Judge J. W. Adkins.

Mr. Kidwell was awarded $679.16 in his suit for $984. The suit was based on a truck wreck near the intersection of Route 56 and the Williamsport-Darbyville pike, Dec. 12, 1936.

The new trial motion contended that the jurors arrived at the verdict by each member placing certain amounts on tally sheets, totalling them, and dividing by 12.

Eleven jurors that heard the case were questioned in the recent hearing for the new trial. The judge's decision says, "Now the testimony of these jurors, eleven of them, who testified as to their manner and means of arriving at this verdict is that there was no antecedent agreement to bind them to a quotient verdict and that they did specifically discuss and approve said verdict after it was so struck as a quotient verdict by the foreman of the jury and each and every one of said

Cost Of Conflict Quoted In Brussels Talk

BRUSSELS, Nov. 13—(UP)—The Chinese-Japanese war raises the question whether law or force shall rule the world, Norman H. Davis, chief United States delegate, asserted before the Far Eastern conference today in discussing Japan's refusal to attend.

The conference, with 19 nations represented as signatories or adherents to the nine power treaty covering China's sovereignty, met to discuss Japan's action.

Davis, addressing the delegates, pointed out that Japan had rejected two invitations, one from the Belgian government as host, the second from the conference itself.

May Cooperate Yet

He made no threats against Japan and even expressed hope that Japan still might decide to co-operate with the conferees. Then he added:

"The question, in its final analysis, is whether international relations shall be determined by arbitrary force or by law and respect for international treaties."

"In fact, that seems to be the greatest issue facing the world today, and one of the most momentous problems that mankind has been called on to solve."

COUNTY TO FACE GRAND JURORS ON CHECK COMPLAINT

George Tester, 37, of Williamsport R. F. D., was bound to the grand jury under $1,000 Friday afternoon after denying a charge of forgery filed in H. O. Eveland's justice of peace court. He was committed to the county jail.

Tester, a farm laborer, was arrested near Washington C. H. by Miller Fissell and Robert Adkins, deputy sheriffs. The charge was filed by Eymann Wolfe, E. Main street merchant. It was based on a $10 check given to Mr. Wolfe on Nov. 6. The check, on the First National bank, was payable to Frank Wilson and signed with the name of Renick Dunlap, of near Kingston.

Tester has several fractured ribs, officers said, as the result of being "kicked" by a tractor several days ago.

POMERENE DIES; DIRECTED PROBE

Former U. S. Senator Had Prominent Place In Oil Scandal

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13—(UP)—Former U. S. Senator Atlee F. Pomerene, known internationally as prosecutor of the Teapot Dome oil cases, was dead today.

Pomerene succumbed to bronchial pneumonia, of which he had been ill two weeks. He was 73.

Although a Democrat, Pomerene received his highest honors from two Republican presidents. President Coolidge assigned him to prosecute the Teapot Dome oil fraud cases. President Hoover appointed him to head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He served in the senate 12 years.

Pomerene left public life shortly after President Roosevelt's inauguration, when members of congress felt that the chief executive should have control of R. F. C. activities, unhampered by the opinions of holdover officials.

The former senator had been in a coma three days and his physician, Dr. Harley Williams, had expected his death momentarily.

Pomerene had lived quietly in an apartment hotel since his retirement from public life, and expired there.

Surviving are his widow, Mary, who was at his bedside, two brothers and two sisters. Funeral services will be held Monday at 1 p. m. from the Church of the Covenant, Presbyterian.

West Virginia Officials Clear Up Kidnaping Of Aged Minister

ADAMS, WENSFIELD HELD

Both Paroled From State Reformatory

Two youthful convicts, paroled from the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield after serving a short term for theft of the automobile of Robert Peters, N. Court street, were held in West Virginia, Saturday, for the abduction of a 79-year-old preacher. A third member of the gang is under arrest, too.

Orville Atkins, 24, alias Pete Adams, sentenced to the reformatory by Judge J. W. Adkins on Jan. 15, 1936 to serve a one to 15-year term, is one of the convicts arrested. John Travis, 24, sentenced from Pickaway county under the name of James Wensfield, is another under arrest. The third, unknown in Pickaway county, is Arnett A. Booth, 46.

Adams and Wensfield, as they are listed in Pickaway county records, were caught at Waverly by state highway patrolmen late in 1935 after they took Robert Peters' car. They had started their southward flight from Upper Sandusky in a stolen car. They abandoned the automobile in Marysville, stole another that brought them to Circleville, and took Peters' machine which they drove as far as Waverly before being captured.

Both were paroled recently at the same time with orders to go to West Virginia, where they continued their crime careers.

Atkins, alias Adams, was arrested Friday night near Canada, Ky. by a Kentucky deputy sheriff and a West Virginia state policeman. Lodged in the county jail at Williamsport, W. Va., he will probably be arraigned before a United States commissioner.

AID FOR BUSINESS MAJOR QUESTION BEFORE SOLONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(UP)—Increasing demands for government encouragement for business dominated preparations for the special session of congress today while New Deal leaders labored over a chaotic, incomplete legislative program.

Failure to settle bickerings over the farm and labor bills in time for the opening session Monday temporarily pushed the interest of returning congressmen in business conditions ahead of the problems which prompted President Roosevelt to summon them back to the capital.

Except for committeemen belatedly seeking to complete crop control and wages and hours bills, enthusiasm on Capitol Hill centered on proposals for federal re-trenchment, amendment of the 1936 undistributed profits tax and other measures intended to encourage business and overcome tendencies toward economic recession.

HAITIANS ASK ROOSEVELT, OTHERS TO PROVIDE HELP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(UP)—Haiti today asked the United States, Mexico, and Cuba to tender their good offices in composing a dispute which has arisen between the Dominican and Haitian governments over the alleged massacre of Haitians nationals on Dominican soil.

Haiti officially charged that thousands of Haitians were slain on Dominican soil early in October. The Haitian request contained in a telegram from President Stenio Vincent and addressed to President Roosevelt reached the White House today.

TIGER GRIDDERS TALLY IN SECOND PERIOD TO DEFEAT GROVE CITY, 6-0

Still Gassing
JEROME DEAN, better known as Dizzy, has kept out of the limelight for months, but don't think he still isn't gassing. Of course, this is the real thing as you can see by this picture taken at Bradentown, Fla., where Dix sells gas in the liquid form, not of the airy variety.

About This And That In Many Sports

QUESTION OF OPPOSITION

There has been a question in ye janitor's noggin for quite a while concerning the type of opposition Circleville football fans would like to see on the local field : : : There are many fans who want Circleville to win regardless of the opposition offered; there are others who like to see a good football team in action, regardless of the outcome, and there are still others who wouldn't give a bent nickel to see an outfit from Pumpkin Center or points west vie against the Red and Black : : : It seems that persons who like a good football pay regardless of the result are in the majority : : : Take this year's schedule, for instance; Groveport, scheduled for a warm-up, bumped the Tigers, plenty; Worthington, Sunbury and Grove City, all class B schools, lost to the Red and Black, but not by lopsided scores : : : Granville, Mt. Vernon, Logan, and Greenfield carried off big margins, and Urbana, another strong school, remains on the schedule * * * *

TEAM CAN WIN

Now the question is: Do Circleville fans want to see teams from towns the size of Worthington, Sunbury, Grove City play, or do they wish to watch eleven from cities the size of Circleville compete against the local lads : : : It seems that Circleville should meet a common opponent, that is, one from a city of about its own population : : : Tiger football has been in the dumps for a long while, in fact so long that school authorities are willing to play almost any school over whom a victory can be gained * * * *

TO BOWLING OFFICIALS

Here's a tip to bowling alley officials: Your schedule has been posted for the remainder of the first half, so why not adhere to it? : : : Changes in dates of matches always cause confusion : : : Each bowling team has six men so why not make the schedule stand, whether or not one of the team members can be present * * * *

TREGO'S BOYS GOOD

Red and Black Linemen Do Well In Soft Going

Circleville high school Tigers closed their football season on a muddy home field Friday evening with a 6-0 victory over Grove City. The grid year will close next Friday in a game with Urbana on the Champaign county field.

The Red and Black crew crossed the goal line with less than two minutes remaining in the second period. A Grove City punt that was partly blocked on the 10 yard line by a charging Tiger line started the scoring move. Junior Martin, playing his first game in the backfield, covered the ball on the Grove City 19. Three plays picked up nine yards, Grove City was penalized five yards for too many times out, moving the ball to within five yards of the goal. A double pass back of the line of scrimmage broke Frank Woodward loose around his right end. He crossed the goal standing up. Woodward's dropkick was a trifle wide.

Pass Causes Threat

Outside of that one advance the Tigers were not able to gain much on the Grovers, ably-coached by Red Trego, a Pickaway county boy. The Red and Black was not in danger except in the closing minutes of the fray when a pass from Jones to Black put the ball on the five yard line. Both teams were offside, and the gun cracked after a line play was smeared for a yard loss.

Grove City gained possession of the ball on the 24 just before the scoring threat when a charging invader pushed Marvin Jenkins back against the pignisk as Martin Walters tried to punt. The kick was blocked, Grove City covering. An earlier threat was halted when Art Rooney, showing the ability he truly possesses, broke through to smear a ball carrier for a seven yard loss on fourth down. This fierce tackle came just before Walters tried to punt out of danger.

Arlidge, Liston Strong

The line paced by dependable Gene Arledge and Bob Liston played havoc with many Grove City offensive thrusts. The only place the Grovers were able to gain was around the ends, and the secondary did a good job of smearing the ball toters on these plays. The game was the last one in which several members of the team will appear locally in high school uniforms. Dave Jackson, Bob Fickardt, Earl Garner, Jim Price, Junior Martin, who did a good job in his first effort as a quarterback, and Martin Walters are all through.

TITLE HOPES OF STATE GRIDIRON TEAMS IN DOUBT

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—(UP)—Title hopes of contenders in the Buckeye and the Ohio conferences were to be tested again today as 20 games involving state teams were scheduled.

The two top-ranked Buckeye conference teams, the University of Dayton and Marshall, were opposed by league foes in the semifinal games of their title campaigns. Dayton, victor in the three Buckeye games it has played, met Miami at Dayton; and Marshall, with a record of two wins and a tie, played the University of Cincinnati at Huntington, W. Va.

If Dayton and Marshall both are victorious the Buckeye crown winner then will be determined when these two teams battle next week at Dayton.

The other two members of the conference play outside teams. Ohio Wesleyan, nearing the end

MONTAGUE IN BIG GOLFING MATCH WITH RUTH, BABE

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(UP)—The last shred of mystery surrounding the prodigious golfing feats attributed to John Montague, recently acquitted of a robbery charge, will be lifted tomorrow when he tees off with Babe Ruth, Babe Didrikson and Mrs. Sylvia Annenberg in an 18-hole exhibition match for charity.

This Paul Bunyanesque figure of the links will pair with Mrs. Annenberg, women's champion of Long Island, against Ruth and Miss Didrikson, longest driver in the feminine ranks. The match was arranged by Sports Writer Bill Corum to aid Mayor La Guardia's fund for underprivileged children. The gallery will be limited to 6,000.

In a practice nine hole round yesterday, Montague and Al Ciuci defeated Ruth and Henry Ciuci one up. Montague and Al carded par 35s, Ruth had a 37, while Al's brother was low with a 34.

PITTSBURGH AND NEW YORK READY FOR BIG GAMES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(UP)—Pittsburgh and New York were the football capitals of the nation today.

In Pittsburgh, the undefeated Pitt Panthers, driving toward the mythical national championship, face Nebraska's unbeaten Cornhuskers. In New York, the Army versus Notre Dame was expected to draw 80,000 to Yankee stadium. Pittsburgh and Notre Dame—the former a 21-6 victory over the latter last week—were favored. The Panthers, whose record is marred only by a scoreless tie with Fordham were 4-1 over a team that is undefeated but tied by Kansas and Oklahoma. Notre Dame, on its stubborn defense, was 3-1 over Army, which hasn't on in this series since 1931.

Elsewhere intersectional strife featured the program. Four of the

TIGERS' SCHEDULE LISTS 11 GAMES STARTING DEC. 14

Circleville high school cagers, playing their last game of football next week at Urbana, will open their basketball season on Dec. 14 with a game at Amanda. Practice for the cage season will begin Nov. 22.

The schedule announced Saturday by Virgil Cress, high school manager of athletics, lists 11 contests with two open dates prevailing. Seven of the games already contracted will be played on the Circleville Athletic Club court while the other four will be on the road.

Coach Jack Landrum will not be able to figure his prospects until some practice sessions are inspected. Dave Jackson, Bob Fickardt, Stringbean Smith, Junior Martin, Bob Liston, Bill Heffner, Don Jackson, Paul Walters, Frank Woodward, and several others will be available.

The schedule to date includes: Dec. 14, Amanda, there. Dec. 17, Chillicothe, there. Dec. 21, Jackson, here. Jan. 7, open. Jan. 14, Waverly, there. Jan. 18, Ashville, here. 50,000 IN STAND FOR OHIO STATE, ILLINOIS CONTEST

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—(UP)—Ohio State sought to retain a slim mathematical chance of winning the Western conference championship here today when it met Illinois before a homecoming day crowd of 50,000.

The game was regarded as a toss-up. Illinois started the season with a "green" team but has improved rapidly. Ohio State's play in its last start was not up to its early season performances.

If Ohio State was victorious today, the Bucks would stand a mathematical chance of taking the Big Ten crown provided Minnesota is beaten either by Northwestern or Wisconsin.

OHIO SPORTSMEN READY TO START RABBIT SEASON

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—(UP)—Preparations for the opening of Ohio's hunting season on Monday, today went into the realms of "big business."

Better than half-a-million hunters, the State Conservation Division estimated today, will take to the fields at noon Monday to begin an advance against the cotton tail rabbit, the ring-necked pheasant and the Hungarian partridge.

Licenses for the 550,000 hunters alone will cost $550,000. Shells will cost $600,000 or more. Clothing, oil, gasoline, meals and hotel, guns and equipment will amount to at least $2,000,000. The actual opening day financial outlay is generally a guess, but best estimates place this figure at better than $3,000,000 on the basis of these three individual major items.

At the same time the conservation division will open a comprehensive game law enforcement program calling into play the entire enforcement staff of some 110 men, together with a large number of especially deputized wardens, all aided by the State Highway Patrol under command of Col Lynn Black, superintendent.

The officers plan to set up broad blockades in the better known hunting sections. Automobiles will be subject to inspection by deputies to prevent illegal game being transported. Guns and dogs of violators caught in the act or in possession of illegal game also can be seized, the department warned.

COUNTY CAGERS LAUNCH SEASON WITH FULL SKED

Williamsport Gains 16-15 Margin Over N. Holland In Two Overtimes

ASHVILLE, SCIOTO WIN

Satisfaction Expressed Over New Ruling

Pickaway county cage teams were off on another drive toward league championships and the tournament, scheduled next February, after hectic games Friday evening.

Most of the pre-season favorites came through with exception of New Holland's speedy Bulldogs who lost a heart-breaker to an equally fast Williamsport outfit. The tilt required two overtime periods, Williamsport coming through in the last five minutes to win 16-15.

Ashville, Scioto, Walnut, and Jackson township boys came through with victories.

Another full schedule will be played next Friday evening.

Most all coaches expressed satisfaction with the rule eliminating the center jump except at the start of each half and after a double-foul. More speed is noted with the necessity for many substitutions being stressed.

Rocky Mountain Athlete Makes Selection Easy

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

A YOUNG MAN in the Rocky mountains has made life easier for the All-American selectors this fall . . . they have to pick only ten men instead of eleven, because of him . . . and the difficult task of eastern pickers to choose a Rocky mountain representative on the team is all ironed out.

The young man is Byron White, University of Colorado player . . . they call the young man of the mountains "Whizzer", indicative of his habits of going from here to there . . . not since Dutch Clark came around the mountains has there been such a ball carrier, according to those who have seen him perform . . . and some of those who have watched him saw Dutch Clark going about his trade, too . . . The Whizzer is All-American by many, many miles.

Considering his speed, the Whizzer is a big lad . . . six feet one inch tall, weighing 185 pounds, 20 years old . . . besides being president of the student body, he is an "A" student, a Phi Beta Kappa, candidate for a Rhodes scholarship and member of honorary campus societies . . . for a living he huris hash at the fraternity house and does odd jobs around the stadium.

But it is his odd jobs of football that toss this department into the aisle on its ear . . . as a sophomore, in his first appearance, he was whizzing 'round the mountain against University of Oklahoma when he ran into a snag, and was so severely injured that physicians advised him to forget football for the rest of his life . . . what he forgot, though, was the doctor's orders, for he came right back and played . . . and in basketball became high scoring guard of the conference . . . as a junior he won all the honors the conference could bestow, leading all hands in scoring.

This year the wild man from Wellington started whizzing where he left off last fall . . . in the game with Utah, he scored all of his team's 17 points . . . and Coach Harry Hughes of the Missouri saw him whiz 175 yards carrying the ball . . . and Missouri coaches said his job of signal calling was as fine as they ever had seen . . . he has studied football with the same diligence he applies to trigonometry . . . practicing hours kicking at a red flag on the two-yard line . . . passing through a rubber tire . . . booting placements from all angles.

After graduation . . . he says he's going to be a lawyer!

The Christian Minister

On his first missionary journey Paul was stoned by a mob at Lystra. Timothy's home. Later Timothy became a Christian minister whom Paul called "my son Timothy."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—I Timothy 4:1-16; II Timothy 2:1-4.

Paul wrote two letters to Timothy, the second from prison just before his death. Both letters are full of advice given to help Timothy to be "a good minister of Christ Jesus."

"Exercise thyself unto godliness. Labor and strive because we have our hope set on God who is the Saviour of all men," so Paul advised Timothy.

Timothy was to give his full time to the ministry: "No soldier on service entangleth himself in the affairs of this life." (GOLDEN TEXT—I Timothy 4:14.)

I Timothy 4:14—"Neglect not the gift that is in thee."

Casserole Dish Popular
Meat combined with gravy and vegetables in casserole dishes ranks high as a favorite way of serving left-over meat. Meat pies, topped with mashed potatoes or with a biscuit crust, are delicious. In preparing these dishes, remember that the meat is already cooked and needs only to be thoroughly heated.

Meat Salad Good
A good way to serve meat which has already been cooked is a meat salad, in various combinations, with celery, cooked vegetables, diced pineapple or other fruit. Veal and lamb are favorites for meat salads, but pork and beef serve equally well.

Insurance Association Plans Annual Meeting

By S. D. FRIDLEY

Mrs. C. B. Teegardin, secretary of The Pickaway County Farmers' Mutual Fire Association, is now mailing to members of the association the regular annual statement of its financial condition, the amount of the annual assessment, number of policies and amount of risk in force. Also announcing the annual meeting of the association which will be held in the K. of P. hall, Ashville, on Monday, Dec. 6, at 9 o'clock a. m.

Three directors are to be elected at this session and such other business that may need attention. No assessment amounts will be received at this meeting. Number policies now in force, 2850; amount of risk in force, $11,159,975; the business increase for the last year, $37,510. The smallest amount of loss paid during the last year was for a shock of wheat burned by lightning, $150. Property was that of Grover Roese.

Hogs Like Hybrid Corn

And now you know positively sure about hogs and hybrid corn. Homer Reber, the Walnut township farmer, was here yesterday and we asked him if there was any truth in the story that hogs did not do well on hybrid corn. He said he had a field in which there were both hybrid and ordinary corn. Turned his hogs in this field to "hog it down" and the hybrid was the first to be eaten by them while practically all the other was standing. So this settles the hog and hybrid corn argument we have heard so much about. Hybrid corn, it is now proven, is preferred by the porkers, to the other and they should know.

Personal Items

Mrs. J. M. Borrer, Mrs. William Bowers, Mrs. Amy Stoker, Mrs. Anna Cordray and Mrs. Grace Foreman attended a meeting of the Ladies Aid at Darbyville Thursday and also at Robtown where a program was given and lunch served. . . . Squire Sherman Hoover was among the American Legion boys who held a shooting match with ducks as prizes. And Sherman was one of the lucky boys hitting the bulls eye the first time up and a duck was his. . . . Council will be in session Monday evening. . . . The three old boilers at the local cannery which it is said have been in use there for the last 39 years are to be replaced by a new one of 350 horse power. This will be rather a heavy job for the boys but they know how to handle these kinds of jobs and that'll help a lot.

Youngster Gets Degree

Gave a youngster, about 35, "the third" yesterday evening. He had just parked his truck of the light delivery kind, at the curb across from bank and we noticed an Indiana tag plate on his machine so we "made a dive" for the outfit and found we had again contacted one of those friendly chaps we have so often met. Told us he lived at Lebanon, Ind., when he was at home and that he was here to stay over night and then tomorrow up to Madison township to meet the school and sell them, if he could, two more school bus bodies they are in the market for. Had already sold them five which are in use. Said he had been selling bus bodies for ten years.

HUMAN RIGHTS
INDIVIDUALLY and collectively, we in our time have lost the care for the rights of the individual which prevailed at the end of the nineteenth century," observes a leading clergyman.

At the close of the last century, he says, there was still enough of the spirit of the French Revolution in the nations for a man to appeal to the conscience of the world, and at his appeal other men would come to his rescue. Lately there is less and less of that.

There were many evil things about the French Revolution; many injustices were done, and those radicals mostly committed the error of thinking that human freedom required godlessness. The Russians and various other present-day Communist groups still seem to think so, but many know better. In true democracy, as in true religion, people learn that they can be "bond, yet free."

LATIN-AMERICAN TRADE
LATIN-AMERICAN trade is valuable, and American business men and statesmen naturally want this country to have all of that trade it can get. But there is no use in making extravagant statements about it.

A radio commentator says that "if all United States factories operated to full capacity for 25 years, their production would still be far short of filling the potential consumers' demand in South and Central America."

That statement is wildly theoretical. Nobody knows what the "potential demand" of Latin-America is. The only sure thing is that the demand is elastic, depending on the current buying power of our southern neighbors, on their preference for European or American goods, and particularly on the volume of goods we buy from them, thus giving them the means to buy.

Unfortunately our business with that part of the world has fallen off. Lately it has been only about half as much in dollars as it was 10 or 15 years ago. That is partly a matter of falling prices.

There has long been what economists call an "unfavorable balance." That is, we have bought more from Latin-America than we sold it. Our imports are mostly sugar and other raw or half-raw products. Of course we make money out of refining and re-selling those products. The proportion of exports and imports has been about the same for decades.

Of course the more trade we can get in this hemisphere, the better. It is well for the Pan-American community to live at home, and keep the profits at home, so far as possible, in this present state of the world. The Latin-American trade has been worth more to us than the Chinese trade; and the more troubled Asia

WINDSOR'S VISIT FIASCO
WASHINGTON—If the British Government does not regularize the forthcoming visit of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, there is a good chance that it will become just as much of a mess as the well-remembered tour of Queen Marie of Roumania.

So far, plans for the Windsors' sojourn here have been a mixture of buck-passing and personal advertising.

The Administration to date has dodged any official plans for the Windsors' reception here. Mrs. Roosevelt has told the State Department that she would give them a tea, and that probably there would be a White House dinner.

But after that, they will be on their own. Miss Perkins has said she would be glad to put them in touch with certain social and labor problems, but has made it clear that she is not inviting them to the United States. Also Secretary of the Interior Ickes is being queried regarding other portions of their tour.

Cables to Ickes from Charles Bedeaux, on behalf of the Duke, have been coming collect.

They asked for the location of housing projects and worth-while scenic spots. Ickes answered in detail by cable—collect. The wording of the cable made it clear that the Interior Department was not a tourist bureau.

PAID PUBLICITY
Simultaneously with the arrival of these telegrams, in fact some time before their arrival, their text was made public by the Windsors' publicity organization. This consists of Arthur Kudner, Inc. New York advertising firm, and its Washington representative, Frank Getty.

These are employed by Charles Bedeaux, who has taken the Duke and Duchess under his wing.

Bedeaux is a mysterious figure. He began life working below the water-level as a sand-hog, devised a stretch-out system for speeding up this and other work, is of French-Canadian descent, once was a member of the Foreign Legion, and is suspected of using the Duke's trip as a neat little method for advertising Bedeaux.

Meanwhile nothing concrete is being done about the Duke's trip. Secretary Ickes has received several hundred letters and telegrams asking about the royal couple. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad sent an agent to ascertain what kind of a car they would want, and women's clubs from every State sent emotional queries as to whether Edward and Wallis would favor their home town.

But beyond housing and National Parks, Ickes refuses to act as the Windsors' wet nurse.

And members of the British Embassy, when questioned by newspapermen about the trip, gaze serenely out the window.

becomes, the more we should concentrate on trade in our own American sphere.

The present situation should be favorable for business gains in this sphere, because our southern neighbors realize that the United States now treats them as equals, respects their sovereignty and has no predatory designs against them.

Another recent improvement in this country is the strip mill replacing the strip tease.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:
Up to another nasty day, but Fall presents them frequently along with the glorious, so we take them with as little complaint as possible. Rather sleepy, for the night before had remained up unusually late working for the Legion at the Armistice Day party. All that work for a net of only about $30. But $30 to the Legion post is a lot of money and almost everyone was satisfied.

Met Leslie May at the post, he being in his usual good humor. Came a note from Charlie Gilmore inviting the scrivener, along with a score of others, to be his guest on a trip to Hillsboro to inspect that village's boulevard lighting system. Charlie wrote that his company has a proposition to offer that will make boulevard lights possible for Roundtown.

Here comes Pat Yates with A. W. Taggart, who was supervising embalmer for the A. E. F. and who selected the Unknown American Soldier, is dead at Omaha, Neb. He was a relative of the Taggarts who formerly lived here. And that reminds me of Fred Clark, the mortician, who has asked that the diary carry a suggestion to state highway officials that speed warning signs be placed near the entrance to Forest cemetery. Folk who visit a cemetery generally have their minds on persons other than themselves. When they leave our cemetery they drive onto a street that also is a state highway, one that almost any time greatly resembles a speedway. Traffic there should be slowed to the minimum.

Missed the Tigers in their last game of the year, fearing malady if I braved that downpour. Was delighted by the victory, about which I heard at the plant. Home, then, and to bed at a reasonable hour.

How We Can Prevent The Start of Cancer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
SINCE WE DO NOT know the cause, it seems at first thought a little absurd to talk about its prevention, but there are a number of things which may precede the actual formation of cancer and, according to many, are instrumental in its formation. These are irritations of various kinds, chronic and repeated injuries, etc.

The commonest sites of cancer are on the skin, especially of the face and hands, the mouth, in the breast, the womb and in the digestive canal. The prevention of cancer of the skin depends upon removing blemishes.

The commonest form of cancer of the skin is the easiest of all cancers to cure, if taken early. It usually occurs in the form of little rough patches, usually in middle-aged or elderly people, and particularly those who are subject to a rough skin.

If one of these little patches should begin to bleed persistently, a doctor should be consulted at once.

Irritations, Skin Blemishes
Irritation of the skin over the bridge of the nose from glasses, pigmented moles, warts and other skin blemishes, are the foot and which cancer often starts. Some-

GIRL, 18, LOOKS BACK ON WORK IN 28 SCHOOLS

CLEVELAND (UP)—The odyssey of 18-year-old Marcella Glinz has taken her to 28 different schools.

Marcella was born in Effingham, Ill. When she was 3 her family moved to Cincinnati. Her father was a bricklayer and as he went from job to job the family moved with him, traveling by automobile.

The Glinzes left Cincinnati to go to Chicago. There, Marcella spent two years in a parochial school.

Then came short stays in two towns in North Carolina and Virginia. For a while, the wanderers moved only from town to town within the state of New York.

As Marcella remembers it, she was graduated from grammar school in Buffalo.

But there have been so many schools . . . it's hard to tell . . . "I can remember more school yards than I can toys," she says.

During her freshman and sophomore years in high school she was a student in Middletown, Ithaca, Amenia, Dover Plains and Buffalo.

Now, in Cleveland, she hopes to stay long enough to get her high school diploma. She has more than a collection of textbooks to remind her of her travels. School friends are numbered by the score.

"I get lots of mail," she says. "I guess it wasn't so bad."

Helen, 7, daughter of William and Amelia Willoughby, E. Water street, died of scarlet fever. Three other members of the family are ill of the disease.

PEACOCK FEATHERS
By Temple Bailey
COPYRIGHT, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

HAD THIS FIRST:
Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, looks back upon his first romantic episode. As a boy of 12, he had kissed a young Italian girl. A few years later, Jerry goes to Washington for a brief visit, with his wealthy uncle from Colorado. In a restaurant the boy sees Mimi Le Brun, a senator's granddaughter of about 13, and she makes a deep impression on his young mind.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 5
WHEN I GOT back to the hotel after seeing Mimi Le Brun, I looked into every mirror I passed. I got glimpses of a tall lank youth, with a rather clumsy use of his feet, a coat that was too short in the sleeves, a rough crop of brown curls, and a somewhat wind-burned and freckled countenance.

Before this I had not thought of looks. At school the girls I knew had seemed to think me handsome enough. I was like the rest of the boys, wearing the clothes which had been bought in our little town. But now I thought a great deal about myself, and when I went down to dinner I observed with interest the young men who sat in the lobby and at the tables in the dining room. My father had given me some money to spend, and while we ate our dessert, I asked my uncle:

"Could I buy a suit like these city fellows wear with my $20?"

He was in a good humor. "You keep your money and I'll fix you up with a good winter outfit. I have just put through a deal that ought to land me on Easy Street."

I protested that I could pay for my own things, but uncle was insistent. He took me on the following day to a place on the avenue and bought with a lavish hand. We were leaving town and he had the clothes sent at once to the hotel. I put them on and went to the capitol. I hoped that I might catch a glimpse of Mimi Le Brun, and that she might look at me and find something in me to remember, as I had found so much to remember in her. But though I patrolled the halls and the galleries for hours, I could not find her. And when I got back to the hotel and saw myself again in the mirror in my new clothes, I knew that if I had met her there would have been nothing to remember. I was not of her kind or class. I knew, too, that the best thing I could do would be to forget her. But I did not forget her—either then, or ever after.

My Washington experience changed me in this: that I set my Uncle Jerry's life against my father's for comparison. It seemed to me that Uncle Jerry got the most out of life. He could see the world in his own way. He was free to follow the road. My father was tied by his congregation and his conscience. I might agree that my father was the finer man, but Uncle Jerry appealed to my imagination. In my mind's eye I could see him always as I had seen him in the old hotel, with his air of prodigious enjoyment, his gay and gallant bearing. Yes, I wanted to be like Uncle Jerry while I was young. Perhaps when I was old it might be different, but age was so far away that I did not have to think about it.

I found myself restless, wanting things, impatient of my father's point of view.

"Don't you ever long to travel, Father?"

"Yes."

"Why don't you?"

"I have my work."

"I should think you would hate to be tied."

"We are all tied, Jerry."

I am sure, however, that he understood what was the matter with me, and tried to find an outlet for my energies.

We camped, I remember, for a

"MY HEART IS A LUTE"

Alas, that my heart is a lute,
Whereon you have learned to play!
For a many years it was mute,
Until one summer's day
You took it, and touched it, and
made it thrill,
And it thrills and throbs, and
quivers still!

I had known you, dear, so long!
Yet my heart did not tell me why
It should burst one morn into
song
And wake to new life with a cry,
Like a babe that sees the light of
the sun,
And for whom this great world has just begun.

Your lute is enshrined, cased in,
Kept close with love's magic key
So no hand but yours can win
And wake it to minstrelsy;
Yet leave it not silent too long,
nor alone,
Lest the strings should break, and
the music be done.

Conservation League's Show to Be on Nov. 29

A unique experience in the lives of the children of Circleville and Pickaway county will be enjoyed Nov. 29 in the Cliftona theatre when "Little Men", a presentation of the Clare Tree Major Theatre Co., will be offered. The Child Conservation league of Circleville is sponsoring the entertainment.

Circleville has been chosen as one of the cities which will enjoy the performances of the company this season. The Clare Tree Major unit is from New York.

"Why, they're real people. You can almost reach out and touch them," exclaimed one amazed little girl, who had known nothing but motion pictures. It was her first introduction to real theatre, her first thrilling adventure into flesh and blood make-believe. Now, with a half a million of her fellows, all the way from Houston, Texas, to Appleton, Wisconsin, she awaits impatiently the season which will bring again these exciting experiences of living theatre.

It is 14 years since Clare Tree Major, after years in the professional theatre as actress, producer and manager, sent out her first company for children. In that short time, despite depression and taxes, this movement—and there is nothing like it in the world—has grown and expanded each season until now it takes four separate companies to fill the engagements demanded by children and their parents in the playing area. Each year this area is increased to take in as many new towns as possible. Each year more towns, further afield, write to New York begging to be included in next season's plans. And each year thousands of children are added to the tremendous audience served by the plays.

ARMISTICE DAY ASSEMBLY HELD

"Peace and Preparedness," an address by John D. Barricklow headed the Armistice Day assembly program given Thursday morning by social science classes.

Mr. Barricklow, although a product of four years' military training at Ohio State and at the present time a member of the Reserve Officers' training camp, is devoted to the causes of peace and preparedness.

He stressed the importance of maintaining an adequate standing army and reserve forces for the sole purpose of defense.

A high point in the program was reached when Helen Evans, soprano, sang "My Buddie," famous war-time song.

At 11 minutes after 11 o'clock a bugler sounded taps and the student body stood in silence in memory of the war dead.

Ruth Clark and Regina Stevenson tabulated the answers given to a public opinion questionnaire circulated among the townspeople by members of the social science classes. The questions asked concerned selective draft, mobilization of industry in war time, Japan's side in the Sino-Japanese conflict, and other questions of public interest.

ROBERT JEWETT ADDRESSES CLUB

The debate club met Monday. Robert Jewett talked to the members on different topics of speech delivery. He emphasized the fact that one should begin his speech by writing an outline.

Study of the inter-scholastic question is beginning immediately. The Reference Shelf and the Debate Hand Book will be used but much of the material will be gained from other sources.

League debating will not begin until after January 15. The debate schedule has not been announced.

Editorial

"Why should I study art? I can't draw a straight line!" Have you asked that? Well, whether you know it or not you are a designer, for everyone is. Art doesn't consist alone in drawing. Art is beautiful living, and living is enriched by developing one's knowledge of color and design.

Everyone uses color and design every waking moment. It is the first thing you see when you open your eyes and the last thing before closing them.

There are simple laws of color and design that can be learned. There is nothing mysterious about it. Every one can draw well, but every one can and does use color and design, and one can learn to draw as easily as he learned to write.

The desire for beauty is a basic human need, and the history of civilization is an art record. Man has always desired beauty and, though many times his ideas have resulted in architectural monstrosities and ridiculous styles, he has waded through to a higher level of appreciation.

America is awakening to the immense value of art in our national life and this came about through business rather than through the schools. Now we are developing our own designers; no longer depending on foreign talent, so we find it is a necessary subject in our public schools.

Art in school must cover a wide diversity of interests, for it must be a "doing" subject, not just theory. The casual child must be trained along with the gifted one.

The teacher of art must be a student of education, for through correlation and co-operation, art work becomes a help, binding all subjects to it, and should and does make every subject more interesting and valuable.

An art problem requires as much thought as an arithmetic problem and, though results may seem crude, the ideal is before us, and we strive toward the goal of a higher beauty.

HITLER MAY ASK BRITISH GUEST ABOUT COLONIES

Viscount Halifax To See Der
Fuhrer Thursday, Berlin
Believes

MANY TOPICS POSSIBLE
Four-Power Combination
Sought In Europe

BERLIN, Nov. 13 — (UP) — Germany intends to raise the question of colonies when Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council in the British cabinet, visits Berlin next week, it was said today in well informed quarters.

Lord Halifax, on an "unofficial" visit to an international hunting exhibition, is expected to arrive here Wednesday and to remain four or five days. It is probable, informants said, that he will see Fuhrer Adolf Hitler, Thursday.

German leaders, in talks with Lord Halifax, foresee three subjects as the principal point of discussion, it was said:

1. A western European peace treaty.
2. The necessity — as it is regarded here — of allotting to Germany some at least of the colonies wrested from her under the Versailles treaty.
3. The Far Eastern situation.

German and Italy alike, aside entirely from their "Berlin-Rome axis" of co-operation, have long sought a four power combination, including themselves, Britain and France, to make secure the peace of western Europe, and specifically excluding the Soviet union.

The conspicuous lack of success in past conferences is prominent in German minds. Nevertheless, a disposition was shown today to look favorably on the prospects for success of the talks which Lord Halifax is to engage in.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA
Lulise Rainer is a fairly even-tempered individual.

But the quickest way to upset her emotional equilibrium is to call her a second Bernger, a new Garbo, another Dietrich or what-have-you. Her views came to light during the filming of "Big City" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in which she co-starred with Spencer Tracy. The picture opens a 3-day engagement at the Cliftona Theatre Sunday.

"One of the biggest dangers in Hollywood is becoming typed," said the dark-eyed Viennese. "That is bad enough, but to be called a second this or that is cruel!"

STORY OF SEEING EYE
"Dogs against darkness." That's what they call the eyes-for-the-blind German shepherds (not police dogs) of the Seeing Eye, whose story is so human and so fascinating that it has been chosen by Calvacade of America for the first of a series of repeat broadcasts, selected by popular request. The drama of the Seeing Eye, which will be heard again on the Nov. 17 Calvacade, was first broadcast on Dec. 2, 1936.

Morris Frank, pioneer in the work of training dogs and men in the early days of the Seeing Eye organization, will speak on the program. As always, he will be accompanied by his own dog-guide, Buddy, the first dog trained in this country to lead the blind.

CAREER CHOSEN BY MORE FIRST YEAR STUDENTS

NEW YORK (UP)—The freshmen entering Hunter College this fall have a variety of ambitions. One plans to be a veterinarian, one hopes to enter the diplomatic service, another is interested in archeology, and two wish to become missionaries.

Eighty-seven percent of the freshmen have chosen a career, according to a questionnaire answered by 1,060 of the 1,200 entering students. Many of these will train for teaching. However, the number who hope to enter the fields of social or laboratory work show that Hunter is no longer predominantly a college for teachers. An increasing number want a college education as preface to a business career.

The choice of majors by the freshmen is an index to their vocational aims. Science, mathematics, business, and social science are the favorite majors.

Of the 340 students who intend to work at outside jobs while attending college, the majority plan to do so.

In activities outside of college for pleasure, freshmen showed such unusual interests as rifle shooting, puppeteering, microscopy and collecting birds' eggs. Reading, however, was by far the favorite hobby.

PAYNE FUNERAL
Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. in the Northend Mission, the Rev. L. S. Metzler officiating for Mrs. Margaret Payne, who died Friday. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

BLINDNESS ENDS AFTER 20 YEARS

DENVER (UP)—A grandmother's determination to see her grandchildren, three of whom were born since she became blind 20 years ago led to a delicate eye operation which restored the woman's sight.

It was in 1917 that Mrs. Mary V. Dunklee, wife of District Judge George F. Dunklee of Denver, lost her sight. It was believed then that the cause of her blindness lay in some incurable ailment.

So for 20 years Mrs. Dunklee lived in a world of darkness. Recently she became convinced in her own mind that an operation would restore her sight. A Denver doctor was equally convinced. Friends warned her of the hazards of such an operation at her advanced age. She believed it worth the risk.

"Do you realize," she would say, "that I have three grandchildren whom I have never seen? I don't think any risk too great that might permit me to see them."

Following the operation she saw them all, also a fourth grandchild, now a grown man, whom she last beheld as an infant.

"It's lovely," she said.

The faces of her grandchildren, the theatre, books, parks, trees, flowers, and the thousands of physical changes that take place in two decades in a fast moving world—all were as new to her as though they had just been created.

She described a talking motion picture as one of the most startling experiences of her life.

"Seeing people on the stage," she said, "somehow accentuated how unreal it was to be seeing at all. I've never seen a sound movie, you know, and that's the next thing on the program."

The operation was performed only on Mrs. Dunklee's left eye. Vision is not perfect, but with glasses she can see well. An operation on the right eye may be performed soon.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

THE RIGHT DECLARER

THAT simple no trump consideration of desiring to be the declarer when you hold plenty of kings or queens, but preferring to have your partner play the hand when you have more than your share of aces, can also apply to a suit bid. If the opening lead comes through a guarded king, it can cost you two tricks right off the reel. If instead it comes up to the king, only one trick is lost at the outset. On a lead through a queen up to an ace, you have only one stopper if the king sits over the queen, but when it comes through the ace to the queen you always have two stoppers.

now responded with 6-Diamonds and South 6-Diamonds, but at the other North called 4-No Trump, South 5-Spades and North 6-Spades.

Where North played the hand at 6-Diamonds, a heart was led and the contract was immediately set.

The other South declarer, fearing a lead through his heart suit, decided to bid 5-Spades after the 4-No Trump, to give his partner a chance to see where the safest spot was. Six spades was agreed upon as the final contract and as the lead came up to South it would not have mattered if a heart had been led, as only one trick would have been lost in that suit.

CIVIC COMMITTEE

U. S. EMPLOYES TO PASS CARDS NEXT TUESDAY

Effort Made To Have Every Eligible Person Fill In Questionnaire

HAYS ADDRESSES GROUP

All Information To Be Kept In Confidence

Members of the civic committee, to assist postal employees in conducting the national unemployment census from Nov. 16 to 20, met Friday afternoon to discuss means of contacting and furnishing educational service to those persons who should make reports on the registration.

A Hulse Hays, Circleville postmaster, explained that one of the major problems of the department is in reaching persons who have no addresses and supplying sufficient cards at homes to include all the unemployed. There are groups of unemployed in settlements around the city who have no addresses, as well as persons in tourist camps, hobo camps, etc.

Many Sources Used

Information concerning the census will be sent through the schools, churches, and various organizations which are represented in the civic committee. Arrangements may be worked out to have registrations at the schools. Persons who are to fill out the cards may contact members of the committee in their neighborhood, D. H. Marcy at the county relief headquarters on E. Main street, or report at the postoffice.

Mayor Graham was appointed to work out arrangements to have information about the census given at the local theatres. Posters on the census will be displayed in churches Sunday. Information will be given at meetings of various organizations next week.

Persons who experience difficulty in understanding the questions are urged to contact members of the committee or the postoffice. Mr. Hays said, as every effort will be made to have the census as correct as possible in all details.

Meet in Lamb's Office

Members of the committee met in the law offices of Sterling Lamb, chairman of the group.

Mailmen will deliver the registration cards to all homes next Tuesday, Nov. 16. Completed cards are to be mailed before midnight on Saturday, Nov. 20. Additional cards may be obtained from the postoffice or members of the committee. No postage is needed.

Names of signers of the reports will not be published or made public in any manner. Information on the cards is confidential.

The card used for the report lists 14 questions. Each question is fundamental for an understanding of employment. To a large extent, the card is self-explanatory, and in most instances can be filled in by the individual without assistance.

Each person in every family should fill out and return an individual Unemployment Report card to the postoffice if he is included in any of the groups described in the following paragraphs:

a. All persons who are totally unemployed, able to work, and want work. Included in this group are the following:

- (1) Persons who have worked for pay, who are able to work, and still want work.
- (2) Persons who formerly had their own business, farm or professional practice, and no longer work at it, who are able to work, and want work.
- (3) Persons now looking for their first jobs.

b. All persons who are partly employed, able to do more work, and want more work. Included in this group are the following:

- (1) Persons working part-time at regular jobs, who are able to do more work, and want more work.
- (2) Persons employed part-time on irregular work (including casual workers) who are able to do more work, and want more work.

c. All persons working full time or part time on projects of WPA, NYA, CCC, or other emergency work projects which are supported by public funds. Included in this group are the following:

- (1) Persons working on WPA projects or on emergency projects of other Federal agencies under the Works Program.
- (2) Enrollees working in CCC camps.
- (3) Persons employed on NYA work projects.
- (4) Persons receiving NYA student aid.
- (5) Persons working on emergency work projects conducted by the State or local

West Virginia Officials Clear Up Kidnaping Of Aged Minister

leged kidnapers in custody a few hours after Dr. James I. Seder, former superintendent of the West Virginia Anti-Saloon league escaped from his prison Friday.

Travis and Booth were arrested first. The bureau of investigation in Washington announced that they had confessed.

Seder was kidnaped Nov. 1. On Nov. 6 a note was mailed in the Huntington postoffice to his son, Arthur Raymond Seder, of St. Paul, Minn., demanding $50,000 ransom. He went to the G-men and nothing was known of the kidnaping until the minister escaped his crude prison where he had suffered horribly from exposure, and two of the alleged kidnapers had been arrested. It was emphasized that no ransom had been paid.

Seder was taken to a hospital where, despite his age and his suffering, he was recovering rapidly from his experience.

$30 Check Bounced

Booth once rented an apartment from Seder and had become friendly with him, on one occasion, G-men said, Booth got Seder to vouch for a $30 check which subsequently bounced. On Nov. 1, the agents said, Booth went to Seder's home here with a $60 check to cover it and asked the aged man to step outside to an automobile, which belonged to Booth's father, to meet some friends.

Atkins and Travis were alleged to have been waiting in the car. Seder was forced to enter it and was driven to the abandoned coal mine seven miles from Wayne, W. Va., there, the agents said, he was imprisoned in a cold, damp chamber 30 feet underground.

Weakened by exposure and shock, he managed to crawl out yesterday. A farmer heard his cries and found him lying exhausted near the entrance to the mine. His clothing was covered with blood and he had received numerous scratches and bruises.

According to police records, Booth was sentenced to five years in the West Virginia penitentiary in 1936 for a sex crime, and was pardoned after serving 10 months.

FARM BOY ADMITS DEMANDING $1,000 FROM MOVIE STAR

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13—(UP)—A 20-year-old Michigan farm youth confessed early today, according to the sheriff's office, that he mailed a letter demanding $1,000 of Marion Davies, motion picture star.

The youth gave the name of John Timney. He was jailed on an extortion complaint filed by federal agents.

Timney admitted writing the note when arrested in front of a hotel, deputy sheriffs said, and announced that he would plead guilty in federal court today.

The note was reported to have been a demand that the money be delivered to him in person by Miss Davies, who was to wear dark glasses and meet him in front of a South Main street theater.

Miss Davies was warned in the note not to notify authorities, "or you'll get it," deputies reported.

Timney said he came here three weeks ago from Detroit and was jobless and hungry.

"I was broke, and I thought I'd get some money this way," deputies quoted him as saying.

"I thought I'd write to Marion Davies because I figured she has more money than anyone else. "But I didn't expect to get caught at it."

C. E. Holzer, Surgeon, Says Late Williamson Blamed Fowler For Attack

admitted when the judge overruled defense objections and the surgeon repeated the alleged statement.

Dr. Holzer said Williamson repeated the charge "out of a clear sky" the following morning, omitting the word "finally."

Under questioning by Defense Counsel Curtis Reed, the doctor agreed Williamson was in a "very deep coma" when admitted to the hospital and conceded that "a man suffering from a severe head injury may tell a story that he believes to be true when it merely is a dream fancy with scarcely a word of truth."

In direct testimony, however, Dr. Holzer said he believed Williamson was rational when he made the statement.

Dr. Holzer said the fatal blow appeared to have been administered with an object with a smooth surface with no projections. He admitted under questioning that Williamson's injury may have resulted from a fall to the sidewalk.

Is Ohio Going Dry Again?

IS OHIO going dry again? Take a look at this map. The drys won still more territory in the last local option elections. But none of the populous centers is touched. Nearly 16 percent of the population—or approximately 1,350,000 persons—now are unable to buy intoxicating liquors in their subdivisions.

Liquor Law Violators Indicted by U. S. Jury

Three persons arrested by Circleville police on liquor charges were indicted by the federal grand jury on its report Friday. John F. Mader, of Circleville, was jury foreman.

DETROIT POLICE SEEKING GIRL, 18, MISSING IN CITY

DETROIT, Nov. 13—(UP)—Police of the special investigation squad reported today they were searching for 15-year-old Marjorie Mitchell who disappeared a few hours after she had arrived here with her parents and sister from their Polson, Mont., home last night. No trace of the girl has been found, police said.

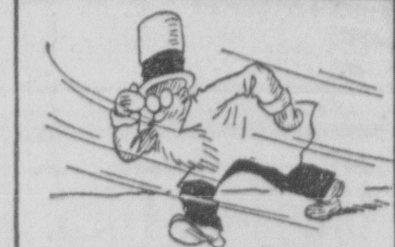

Marjorie disappeared when she left the parked family automobile, announcing she was going to a nearby service station. She did not reach the station, authorities discovered.

The family had driven to Detroit in search of employment for the father, Willard. With him was his wife, and their two daughters, Marjorie and Imogene, 14.

Late yesterday afternoon Mitchell located a friend in this city. He drove to the friend's home where the family waited for him in their car.

During Mitchell's visit, Marjorie left the machine and disappeared.

STATE CENTERS SHERIFF'S TRIAL ON DYING WORDS

C. E. Holzer, Surgeon, Says Lave Williamson Blamed Fowler For Attack

OTHERS TO TESTIFY
Blackjack Named Death Instrument

POMEROY, Nov. 13—(UP)—The state called additional medical witnesses today in an effort to prove that Lave Williamson, Republican leader, in a deathbed statement, named Roscoe G. Fowler, suspended sheriff, as his assailant, following a dance at the Eagles Club last June.

Dr. Charles E. Holzer, chief surgeon at the Holzer Hospital where Williamson was confined, told the court yesterday that the Republican leader told him several days after he was admitted: "Doc, Fowler, the... finally got me."

The state charges Williamson died from a blackjack blow dealt by Fowler. He died about three weeks after he was found unconscious in front of the Eagles club.

PAINTINGS, OTHER VALUABLES BURN IN BOWES HOME

MILLWOOD, N. Y., Nov. 13—(UP)—Fire Chief Walter Deems investigated today the cause of the fire that destroyed "Laurel Hill," the 10-room residence of Major Edward Bowes, theatre and radio impresario, which contained a number of valuable art works.

More than 100 paintings were destroyed. Servants said the fire started in a chimney. It spread so quickly that it was out of control before apparatus arrived from Ossining, N. Y. Bowes was not at home.

Deems estimated the loss at $50,000, not including the furnishings.

HOODED OUTLAW APPEARS AGAIN IN NORTHERN OHIO

TIFFIN, Nov. 13—(UP)—The mysterious, elusive "hooded bandit" whose territory is northwestern Ohio held up a gasoline station here early today, forcing Edward Kuhn, the attendant, to empty the contents of the cash drawer into a sugar sack.

He escaped with $15. At the point of a shotgun, Kuhn was forced to rip the telephone from the wall.

The bandit, who wears a burlap sack over his head, had robbed two gasoline stations here a month ago.

POLICE CITE DANGERS OF ROAD BARRICADE THEFTS

Theft of three lanterns from barricades was reported by police Saturday. Officers said they were taken from barricades in an alley near the Palace restaurant.

Police have issued a warning that any person caught taking the lanterns will be prosecuted. Removal of the lanterns may result in a serious auto accident.

PRINCETON, Ind., Nov. 13—(UP)—Two miners were killed and a third burned seriously by a gas explosion which ripped through a King's Station company mine early today and imprisoned 34 other workers for three hours.

The survivors groped their way two miles through lethal fumes and debris-strewn corridors to the shaft and safety.

Rescue workers aided them after they reached the shaft. The dead were identified as Fount Thompson, 30, Francisco, Ind., and Roger Williams, 35, Princeton. Doyle McCandless, 35, was brought to the surface by rescue workers. His condition was critical.

STEAMER SENDS SOS IN OCEAN

Greek Ship Is Believed Off Cape Hatteras; Signals Heard

BOSTON, Nov. 13—(UP)—A series of S. O. S. signals, the last at 4:30 a. m. came from the Greek steamer Tzechandry today.

Coast guards were informed of the distress calls through the radio marine-station WSC at Tuckerton, Long Island. The ship failed to give position or any other information.

The ship was believed to be in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13—(UP)—MacKay radio early today picked up S. O. S. calls from steamship Tzechandry in distress off the Atlantic coast.

The steamer gave no details of her plight. At 3:20 a. m. she reported having been "in distress" for an hour.

MacKay reported shore stations evidently had been unable yet to contact her in reply.

After 45 minutes of futile effort to reach the boat with a reply from powerful land stations, MacKay said, normal wireless traffic was ordered to resume. The air (Continued on Page Eight)

WIDOW DEMANDS $50,000 DAMAGES IN ELIXIR DEATH

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 13—(UP)—Mississippi valley's first damage suit charging death resulting from the use of elixir of sulfanilamide was on file in circuit court here today.

Mrs. Mayme Welch Miller charged that elixir purchased from the Fox Drug Co., Inc., of Bristol, Tenn., caused the death of her 25-year-old husband, C. W. Miller, on Oct. 20. She asked $50,000 damages.

The suit blamed diethylene glycol, used as the solvent, for causing the chemical reaction which made the prescription lethal. It further stated that Miller died in a hospital 11 days after taking the drug.

Jury's Method of Deciding Damage Action Judgment Upheld By Court

Motion for a new trial in the suit of Homer Kidwell, Darby township, against H. C. McPherson, of Pherson, involving the allegation that a Common Pleas court jury made a damage award by lot and not by consideration of the evidence submitted, was overruled Saturday by Judge J. W. Adkins.

Mr. Kidwell was awarded $679.16 in his suit for 1984. The suit was based on a truck wreck near the intersection of Route 59 and the Williamsport-Darbyville pike, Dec. 12, 1936.

The new trial motion contended

SON OF WEALTHY BANKER MISSING IN CHICAGO AREA

CHICAGO, Nov. 13—(UP)—Detectives questioned traders of a thriving mid-city meat and produce district today in search for Wilson S. Davis, 24-year-old son of a wealthy retired Wisconsin banker, who last was seen Tuesday at one of the mart's commission houses.

Chief of detectives John L. Sullivan said Davis may have been kidnapped or waylaid by holdup men.

"We are investigating all possibilities," he said.

Davis, a northside meat store owner, left his home Tuesday morning, made some purchases at the Illinois Commission company, and disappeared. His automobile was found near the market Wednesday, with an empty gasoline tank.

His beautiful wife, Harriet, 22, daughter of a wealthy operator of a paint store chain, told police her husband carried $250 when he left home. He was in excellent health.

Davis' father, Rutherford Davis, treasurer of the Walworth, Wis., school board, and president of the state bank there for eight years, came here to aid the search.

Envoy Of Pres. Roosevelt Urges World Rule By Law, Not Force

CONCILIATION IS OFFERED
Cost Of Conflict Quoted In Brussels Talk

BRUSSELS, Nov. 13—(UP)—The Chinese-Japanese war raises the question whether law or force shall rule the world, Norman H. Davis, chief United States delegate, asserted before the Far Eastern conference today in discussing Japan's refusal to attend.

The conference, with 19 nations represented as signatories or adherents to the nine power treaty covering China's sovereignty, met to discuss Japan's action.

Davis, addressing the delegates, pointed out that Japan had rejected two invitations, one from the Belgian government as host, the second from the conference itself.

May Cooperate Yet
He made no threats against Japan and even expressed hope that Japan still might decide to co-operate with the conferees. Then he added:

"The question, in its final analysis, is whether international relations shall be determined by arbitrary force or by law and respect for international treaties.

"In fact, that seems to be the greatest issue facing the world today, and one of the most momentous problems that mankind has been called on to solve.

COUNTYMAN TO FACE GRAND JURORS ON CHECK COMPLAINT

George Tester, 37, of Williamsport R. F. D., was bound to the grand jury under $1,000 Friday afternoon after denying a charge of forgery filed in H. O. Eveland's justice of peace court. He was committed to the county jail.

Tester, a farm laborer, was arrested near Washington C. H. by Miller Fissell and Robert Adkins, deputy sheriffs. The charge was filed by Eymann Wolfe, E. Main street merchant. It was based on a $10 check given to Mr. Wolfe on Nov. 6. The check, on the First National bank, was payable to Frank Wilson and signed with the name of Renick Dunlap, of near Kingston.

Tester has several fractured ribs, officers said, as the result of being "kicked" by a tractor several days ago.

POMERENE DIES; DIRECTED PROBE

Former U. S. Senator Had Prominent Place In Oil Scandal

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13—(UP)—Former U. S. Senator Alton F. Pomerene, known internationally as prosecutor of the Teapot Dome oil cases, was dead today.

Pomerene succumbed to bronchial pneumonia, of which he had been ill two weeks. He was 73.

Although a Democrat, Pomerene received his highest honors from two Republican presidents. President Coolidge assigned him to prosecute the Teapot Dome oil fraud cases. President Hoover appointed him to head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He served in the senate 12 years.

Pomerene left public life shortly after President Roosevelt's inauguration, when members of congress felt that the chief executive should have control of R. F. C. activities, unhampered by the opinions of holdover officials.

The former senator had been in a coma three days and his physician, Dr. Harley Williams, had expected his death momentarily.

Pomerene had lived quietly in an apartment hotel since his retirement from public life, and expired there.

Surviving are his widow, Mary, who was at his bedside, two brothers and two sisters. Funeral services will be held Monday at 1 p. m. from the Church of the Covenant, Presbyterian.

YOUTHS CAUGHT IN COUNTY FOR THEFT, CONFESS

West Virginia Officials Clear Up Kidnaping Of Aged Minister

ADAMS, WENSFIELD HELD
Both Paroled From State Reformatory

Two youthful convicts, paroled from the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield after serving a short term for theft of the automobile of Robert Peters, N. Court street, were held in West Virginia, Saturday, for the abduction of a 79-year-old preacher. A third member of the gang is under arrest, too.

Orville Atkins, 24, alias Pete Adams, sentenced to the reformatory by Judge J. W. Adkins on Jan. 15, 1936 to serve a one to 15-year term, is one of the convicts arrested. John Travis, 24, sentenced from Pickaway county under the name of James Wensfield, is another under arrest. The third, unknown in Pickaway county, is Arnett A. Booth, 46.

Caught at Waverly

Adams and Wensfield, as they are listed in Pickaway county records, were caught at Waverly by state highway patrolmen late in 1935 after they took Robert Peters' car. They had started their southward flight from Upper Sandusky in a stolen car. They abandoned the automobile in Marysville, stole another that brought them to Circleville, and took Peters' machine which they drove as far as Waverly before being captured.

Both were paroled recently at the same time with orders to go to West Virginia, where they continued their crime careers.

Atkins, alias Adams, was arrested Friday night near Canada, Ky. by a Kentucky deputy sheriff and a West Virginia state policeman. Lodged in the county jail at Williamson, W. Va., he will probably be arraigned before a United States commissioner.

AID FOR BUSINESS MAJOR QUESTION BEFORE SOLONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(UP)—Increasing demands for government encouragement for business dominated preparations for the special session of congress today while New Deal leaders labored over a chaotic, incomplete legislative program.

Failure to settle bickerings over the farm and labor bills in time for the opening session Monday temporarily pushed the interest of returning congressmen in business conditions ahead of the problems which prompted President Roosevelt to summon them back to the capital.

Except for committeemen belatedly seeking to complete crop control and wages and hours bills, enthusiasm on Capitol Hill centered on proposals for federal re-trenchment, amendment of the 1936 undistributed profits tax and other measures intended to encourage business and overcome tendencies toward economic recession.

HAITIANS ASK ROOSEVELT, OTHERS TO PROVIDE HELP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(UP)—Haiti today asked the United States, Mexico, and Cuba to tender their good offices in composing a dispute which has arisen between the Dominican and Haitian governments over the alleged massacre of Haitians nationals on Dominican soil.

Haiti officially charged that thousands of Haitians were slain on Dominican soil early in October.

The Haitian request contained in a telegram from President Stenio Vincent and addressed to President Roosevelt reached the White House today.

TIGER GRIDDERS TALLY IN SECOND PERIOD TO DEFEAT GROVE CITY, 6-0

JEROME DEAN, better known as Dizzy, has kept out of the limelight for months, but don't think he still isn't gassing. Of course, this is the real thing as you can see by this picture taken at Bradenton, Fla., where Dizzy sells gas in the liquid form, not of the airy variety.

About This And That In Many Sports

QUESTION OF OPPOSITION

There has been a question in ye janitor's noggin for quite a while concerning the type of opposition Circleville football fans would like to see on the local field. There are many fans who want Circleville to win regardless of the opposition offered; there are others who like to see a good football team in action, regardless of the outcome, and there are still others who wouldn't give a bent nickel to see an outfit from Pumpkin Center or points west vie against the Red and Black. It seems that persons who like a good football play regardless of the result are in the majority. Take this year's schedule, for instance; Groveport, scheduled for a warm-up, bumped the Tigers, plenty; Worthington, Sunbury and Grove City, all class B schools, lost to the Red and Black, but not by lopsided scores; Granville, Mt. Vernon, Logan, and Greenfield carried off big margins, and Urbana, another strong school, remains on the schedule.

TEAM CAN WIN

Now the question is: Do Circleville fans want to see teams from towns the size of Worthington, Sunbury, Grove City play, or do they wish to watch eleven from cities the size of Circleville compete against the local lads? It seems that Circleville should meet a common opponent, that is, one from a city of about its own population. Tiger football has been in the dumps for a long while, in fact so long that school authorities are willing to play almost any school over whom a victory can be gained.

TO BOWLING OFFICIALS

Here's a tip to bowling alley officials: Your schedule has been posted for the remainder of the first half, so why not adhere to it? Changes in dates of matches always cause confusion. Each bowling team has six men so why not make the schedule stand, whether or not one of the team members can be present.

Bowling News

With each member of the Circleville team rolling above the 500-pin mark, a Chillicothe crew lost a "rubber" match on the local alleys Friday evening. Team scores were 2,588 and 2,497. Scores: Circleville—2,588; Chillicothe—2,497.

TREGO'S BOYS GOOD

Red and Black Linemen Do Well In Soft Going

Circleville high school Tigers closed their football season on a muddy home field Friday evening with a 6-0 victory over Grove City. The grid year will close next Friday in a game with Urbana on the Champaign county field.

The Red and Black crew crossed the goal line with less than two minutes remaining in the second period. A Grove City punt that was partly blocked on the 10 yard line by a charging Tiger line started the scoring move. Junior Martin, playing his first game in the backfield, covered the ball on the Grove City 19. Three plays picked up nine yards, Grove City was penalized five yards for too many times out, moving the ball to within five yards of the goal. A double pass back of the line of scrimmage broke Frank Woodward loose around his right end. He crossed the goal standing up. Woodward's dropkick was a trifle wide.

Pass Causes Threat

Outside of that one advance the Tigers were not able to gain much on the Grovers, ably-coached by Red Trego, a Pickaway county boy. The Red and Black was not in danger except in the closing minutes of the fray when a pass from Jones to Black put the ball on the five yard line. Both teams were offside, and the gun cracked after a line play was smeared for a yard loss.

Grove City gained possession of the ball on the 24 just before the scoring threat when a charging invader pushed Marvin Jenkins back against the pigskin as Martin Walters tried to punt. The kick was blocked, Grove City covering. An earlier threat was balked when Art Rooney, showing the ability he truly possesses, broke through to smear a ball carrier for a seven yard loss on fourth down. This fierce tackle came just before Walters tried to punt out of danger.

Arlidge, Liston Strong
The Tiger line paced by dependable Gene Arledge and Bob Liston played havoc with many Grove City offensive thrusts. The only place the Grovers were able to gain was around the ends, and the secondary did a good job of smearing the ball toters on these plays.

The game was the last one in which several members of the team will appear locally in high school uniforms. Dave Jackson, Bob Fickardt, Earl Garner, Jim Price, Junior Martin, who did a good job in his first effort as a quarterback, and Martin Walters are all through.

TITLE HOPES OF STATE GRIDIRON TEAMS IN DOUBT

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—(UP)—Title hopes of contenders in the Buckeye and the Ohio conferences were to be tested again today as 20 games involving state teams were scheduled.

The two top-ranked Buckeye conference teams, the University of Dayton and Marshall, were opposed by league foes in the semifinal games of their title campaigns. Dayton, victor in the three Buckeye games it has played, met Miami at Dayton; and Marshall, with a record of two wins and a tie, played the University of Cincinnati at Huntington, W. Va.

If Dayton and Marshall both are victorious the Buckeye crown winner then will be determined when these two teams battle next week at Dayton.

The other two members of the conference play outside teams. Ohio Wesleyan, nearing the end

50,000 IN STAND FOR OHIO STATE, ILLINOIS CONTEST

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—(UP)—Ohio State sought to retain a slim mathematical chance of winning the Western conference championship here today when it met Illinois before a homecoming day crowd of 50,000.

The game was regarded as a toss-up. Illinois started the season with a "green" team but has improved rapidly. Ohio State's play in its last start was not up to its early season performances.

If Ohio State was victorious today, the Bucks would stand a mathematical chance of taking the Big Ten crown provided Minnesota is beaten either by Northwestern or Wisconsin.

PITTSBURGH AND NEW YORK READY FOR BIG GAMES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(UP)—Pittsburgh and New York were the football capitals of the nation today.

In Pittsburgh, the undefeated Pitt Panthers, driving toward the mythical national championship, face Nebraska's unbeaten Cornhuskers. In New York, the Army versus Notre Dame was expected to draw 80,000 to Yankee stadium.

Pittsburgh and Notre Dame, the former a 21-6 victor over the latter last week—were favored. The Panthers, whose record is marred only by a scoreless tie with Fordham were 4-1 over a team that is undefeated but tied by Kansas and Oklahoma. Notre Dame, on its stubborn defense, was 3-1 over Army, which hasn't on in this series since 1931.

Elsewhere intersectional strife featured the program. Four of the of its second straight disastrous season, tangled with Western Reserve at Cleveland; and Ohio University was at New Brunswick, N. J. for a game with Rutgers.

COUNTY CAGERS LAUNCH SEASON WITH FULL SKED

Williamsport Gains 16-15 Margin Over N. Holland In Two Overtimes

ASHVILLE, SCIOTO WIN

Satisfaction Expressed Over New Ruling

Pickaway county cage teams were off on another drive toward league championships and the tournament, scheduled next February, after hectic games Friday evening.

Most of the pre-season favorites came through with exception of New Holland's speedy Bulldogs who lost a heart-breaker to an equally fast Williamsport outfit. The tilt required two overtime periods, Williamsport coming through in the last five minutes to win 16-15.

Ashville, Scioto, Walnut, and Jackson township boys came through with victories.

Another full schedule will be played next Friday evening.

Most all coaches expressed satisfaction with the rule eliminating the center jump except at the start of each half and after a double-foul. More speed is noted with the necessity for many substitutions being stressed.

Rocky Mountain Athlete Makes Selection Easy

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

A YOUNG MAN in the Rocky mountains has made life easier for the All-American selectors this fall. They have to pick only ten men instead of eleven, because of him. . . and the difficult task of eastern pickers to choose a Rocky mountain representative on the team is all ironed out.

The young man is Byron White, University of Colorado player. . . they call the young man of the mountains "Whizzer", indicative of his habits of going from here to there. . . not since Dutch Clark came around the mountains has there been such a ball carrier, according to those who have seen him perform. . . and some of those who have watched him saw Dutch Clark going about his trade, too. . . The Whizzer is All-American by many, many miles.

Considering his speed, the Whizzer is a big lad. . . six feet one inch tall, weighing 185 pounds, 20 years old. . . besides being president of the student body, he is an "A" student, a Phi Beta Kappa, candidate for a Rhodes scholarship and member of honorary campus societies. . . for a living he hurls hash at the fraternity house and does odd jobs around the stadium.

But it is his odd jobs of football that toss this department into the aisle on its ear. . . as a sophomore, in his first appearance, he was whizzing 'round the mountain against University of Oklahoma when he ran into a snag, and was so severely injured that physicians advised him to forget football for the rest of his life. . . what he forgot, though, was the doctor's orders, for he came right back and played. . . and in basketball became high scoring guard of the conference. . . as a junior he won all the honors the conference could bestow, leading all hands in scoring.

This year the wild man from Wellington started whizzing where he left off last fall. . . in the game with Utah, he scored all of his team's 17 points. . . and Coach Harry Hughes of the Missouri saw him whiz 175 yards carrying the ball. . . and Missouri coaches said his job of signal calling was as fine as they ever had seen. . . he has studied football with the same diligence he applies to trigonometry. . . practicing hours kicking at a red flag on the two-yard line. . . passing through a rubber tire. . . booting placements from all angles.

After graduation. . . he says he's going to be a lawyer!

The Christian Minister

On his first missionary journey Paul was stoned by a mob at Lystra. Timothy's home. Later Timothy became a Christian minister whom Paul called "my son Timothy."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—I Timothy 4:1-16; II Timothy 2:1-4.

Paul wrote two letters to Timothy, the second from prison just before his death. Both letters are full of advice given to help Timothy to be "a good minister of Christ Jesus."

"Exercise thyself unto godliness. Labor and strive because we have our hope set on God who is the Saviour of all men," so Paul advised Timothy.

Timothy was to give his full time to the ministry: "No soldier on service entangleth himself in the affairs of this life." (GOLDEN TEXT—I Timothy 4:14.)

I Timothy 4:14—"Neglect not the gift that is in thee."

Casserole Dish Popular Meat combined with gravy and vegetables in casserole dishes ranks high as a favorite way of serving left-over meat. Meat pies, topped with mashed potatoes or with a biscuit crust, are delicious. In preparing these dishes, remember that the meat is already cooked and needs only to be thoroughly heated.

Meat Salad Good A good way to serve meat which has already been cooked is a meat salad, in various combinations, with celery, cooked vegetables, diced pineapple or other fruit. Veal and lamb are favorites for meat salads, but pork and beef serve equally well.

Insurance Association Plans Annual Meeting

Mrs. C. B. Teegardin, secretary of the Pickaway County Farmers' Mutual Fire Association, is now mailing to members of the association the regular annual statement of its financial condition, the amount of the annual assessment, number of policies and amount of risk in force. Also announcing the annual meeting of the association which will be held in the K. of P. hall, Ashville, on Monday, Dec. 6 at 9 o'clock a. m.

Three directors are to be elected at this session and such other business that may need attention. No assessment amounts will be received at this meeting. Number policies now in force, 2850; amount of risk in force, $11,159,975; the business increase for the last year, $37,510. The smallest amount of loss paid during the last year was for a shock of wheat burned by lightning, $150. Property was that of Grover Roese.

Ashville Hogs Like Hybrid Corn And now you know positively sure about hogs and hybrid corn. Homer Reber, the Walnut township farmer, was here yesterday and we asked him if there was any truth in the story that hogs did not do well on hybrid corn. He said he had a field in which there were both hybrid and ordinary corn. Turned his hogs in this field to "hog it down" and the hybrid was the first to be eaten by them while practically all the other was standing. So this settles the hog and hybrid corn argument we have heard so much about. Hybrid corn, it is now proven, is preferred by the porkers, to the other and they should know.

Squire Sherman Hoover was among the American Legion boys who held a shooting match with ducks as prizes. And Sherm was one of the lucky boys hitting the bulls eye the first time up and a duck was his. . . . Council will be in session Monday evening. . . . The three old boilers at the local cannery which it is said have been in use there for the last 39 years are to be replaced by a new one of 350 horse power. This will be rather a heavy job for the boys but they know how to handle these kinds of jobs and that'll help a lot.

Ashville Youngster Gets Degree Gave a youngster, about 35, "the third" yesterday evening. He had just parked his truck of the light delivery kind, at the curb across from bank and we noticed an Indiana tag plate on his machine so we "made a dive" for the outfit and found we had again contacted one of those friendly chaps we have so often met. Told us he lived at Lebanon, Ind., when he was at home and that he was here to stay over night and then tomorrow up to Madison township to meet the school and sell them, if he could, two more school bus bodies they are in the market for. Had already sold them five which are in use. Said he had been selling bus bodies for ten years.

HUMAN RIGHTS

INDIVIDUALLY and collectively, we in our time have lost the care for the rights of the individual which prevailed at the end of the nineteenth century," observes a leading clergyman.

At the close of the last century, he says, there was still enough of the spirit of the French Revolution in the nations for a man to appeal to the conscience of the world, and at his appeal other men would come to his rescue. Lately there is less and less of that.

There were many evil things about the French Revolution; many injustices were done, and those radicals mostly committed the error of thinking that human freedom required godlessness. The Russians and various other present-day Communist groups still seem to think so, but many know better. In true democracy, as in true religion, people learn that they can be "bond, yet free."

LATIN-AMERICAN TRADE

LATIN-AMERICAN trade is valuable, and American business men and statesmen naturally want this country to have all of that trade it can get. But there is no use in making extravagant statements about it.

A radio commentator says that "if all United States factories operated to full capacity for 25 years, their production would still be far short of filling the potential consumers' demand in South and Central America."

That statement is wildly theoretical. Nobody knows what the "potential demand" of Latin-America is. The only sure thing is that the demand is elastic, depending on the current buying power of our southern neighbors, on their preference for European or American goods, and particularly on the volume of goods we buy from them, thus giving them the means to buy.

Unfortunately our business with that part of the world has fallen off. Lately it has been only about half as much in dollars as it was 10 or 15 years ago. That is partly a matter of falling prices.

There has long been what economists call an "unfavorable balance." That is, we have bought more from Latin-America than we sold it. Our imports are mostly sugar and other raw or half-raw products. Of course we make money out of refining and re-selling those products. The proportion of exports and imports has been about the same for decades.

Of course the more trade we can get in this hemisphere, the better. It is well for the Pan-American community to live at home, and keep the profits at home, so far as possible, in this present state of the world. The Latin-American trade has been worth more to us than the Chinese trade; and the more troubled Asia

WASHINGTON—If the British Government does not regularize the forthcoming visit of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, there is a good chance that it will become just as much of a mess as the well-remembered tour of Queen Marie of Roumania.

So far, plans for the Windsors' sojourn here have been a mixture of buck-passing and personal advertising.

The Administration to date has dodged any official plans for the Windsors' reception here. Mrs. Roosevelt has told the State Department that she would give them a tea, and that probably there would be a White House dinner.

But after that, they will be on their own. Miss Perkins has said she would be glad to put them in touch with certain social and labor problems, but has made it clear that she is not inviting them to the United States. Also Secretary of the Interior Ickes is being queried regarding other portions of their tour.

Cables to Ickes from Charles Bedeaux, on behalf of the Duke, have been coming collect.

They asked for the location of housing projects and worth-while scenic spots. Ickes answered in detail by cable—collect. The wording of the cable made it clear that the Interior Department was not a tourist bureau.

PAID PUBLICITY

Simultaneously with the arrival of these telegrams, in fact some time before their arrival, their text was made public by the Windsors' publicity organization. This consists of Arthur Kudner, Inc. New York advertising firm, and its Washington representative, Frank Getty.

These are employed by Charles Bedeaux, who has taken the Duke and Duchess under his wing.

Bedeaux is a mysterious figure. He began life working below the water-level as a sand-hog, devised a stretch-out system for speeding up this and other work, is of French-Canadian descent, once was a member of the Foreign Legion, and is suspected of using the Duke's trip as a neat little method for advertising Bedeaux.

Meanwhile nothing concrete is being done about the Duke's trip. Secretary Ickes has received several hundred letters and telegrams asking about the royal couple. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad sent an agent to ascertain what kind of a car they would want, and women's clubs from every State sent emotional queries as to whether Edward and Wallis would favor their home town.

But beyond housing and National Parks, Ickes refuses to act as the Windsors' wet nurse.

And members of the British Embassy, when questioned by newspapermen about the trip, gaze serenely out the window.

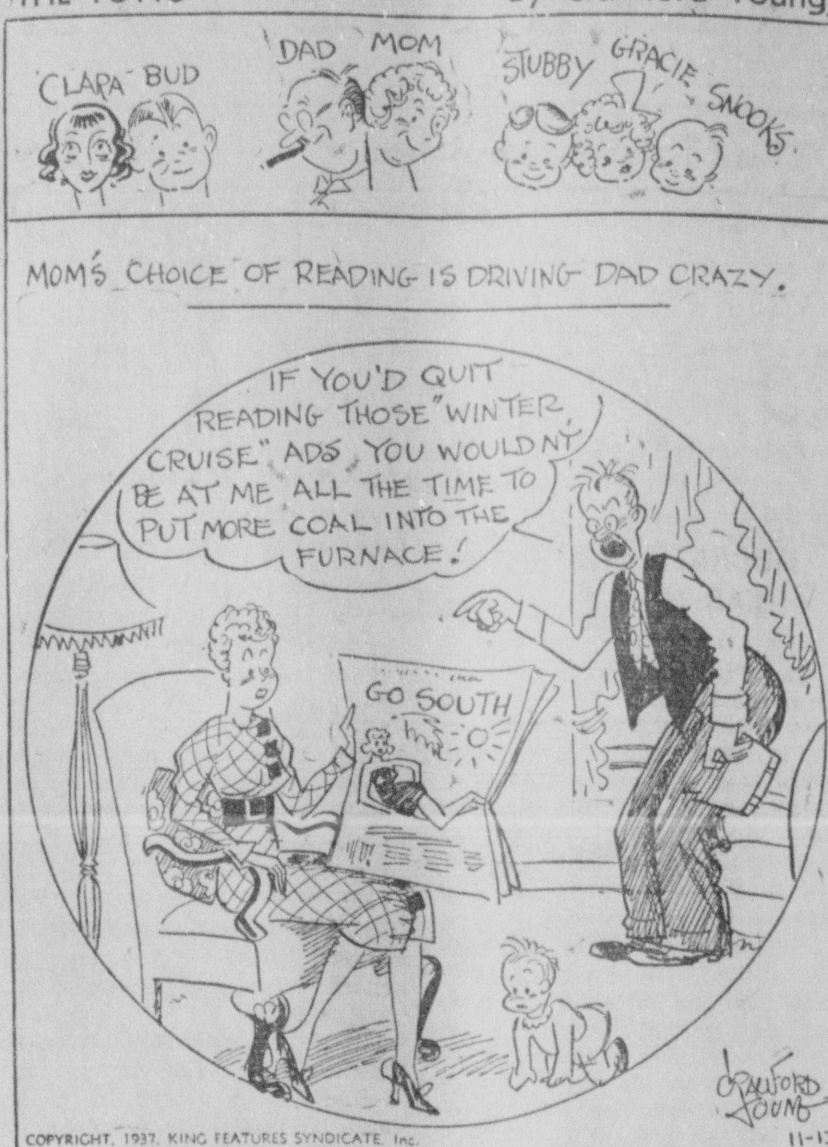

becomes, the more we should concentrate on trade in our own American sphere.

The present situation should be favorable for business gains in this sphere, because our southern neighbors realize that the United States now treats them as equals, respects their sovereignty and has no predatory designs against them.

Another recent improvement in this country is the strip mill replacing the strip tease.

How We Can Prevent The Start of Cancer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
SINCE WE DO NOT know the cause, it seems at first thought a little absurd to talk about its prevention, but there are a number of things which may precede the actual formation of cancer and, according to many, are instrumental in its formation.

These are irritations, blemishes of various kinds, chronic and repeated injuries, etc. The commonest sites of cancer are on the skin, especially of the face and hands, the mouth, in the breast, the womb and in the digestive canal. The prevention of cancer of the skin depends upon removing blemishes.

The commonest form of cancer of the skin is the easiest of all cancers to cure, if taken early. It usually occurs in the form of little rough patches, usually in middle-aged or elderly people, and particularly those who are subject to a rough skin.

If one of these little patches should begin to bleed persistently, a doctor should be consulted at once. Irritations, Skin Blemishes. Irritation of the skin over the bridge of the nose from glasses, pigmented moles, warts and other skin blemishes, are the feet around which cancer often starts. Somebody said that no beautiful woman ever suffers from cancer of the skin because she pays immediate attention to any skin blemish.

A common form of cancer is on the lips at the place where two forms of skin meet. A rough pipe mouth or cigar or cigarette holder is liable to cause an irritation which becomes the site of a cancer. Clean and smooth teeth are the most important thing in preventing cancer of the mouth. Whenever you find a sore spot in your mouth, you should certainly consult a physician about it. I remember a man who was traveling in Europe and he thought he had burned his tongue with Tabasco sauce. The pain persisted for two or three days and when he went to a physician, he found he had a small ulceration there which was possibly cancerous. Prompt treatment with radium probably prevented him from having a far more serious growth later on.

Rough crowns or fillings, jagged, ragged teeth, sharp points, should all be removed promptly.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
V. C.: "I was recently told that insulin injections would cause one to gain weight. Would appreciate your advice on the subject."

Answer: Insulin injections were used several years ago quite extensively for this purpose and were quite enthusiastically reported on. However, since then there have been some less enthusiastic reports. However, the insulin injections seem to do no harm, and there is no reason why they should not be tried if dietetic treatment has failed.

PEACOCK FEATHERS

By Temple Bailey

HAD THIS FIRST:
Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, looks back upon his first romantic episode. As a boy of 12, he had kissed a young Italian girl. A few years later, Jerry goes to Washington for a brief visit, with his wealthy uncle from Colorado. In a restaurant the boy sees Mimi Le Brun, a senator's granddaughter of about 13, and she makes a deep impression on his young mind.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 5

WHEN I GOT back to the hotel after seeing Mimi Le Brun, I looked into every mirror I passed. I got glimpses of a tall lank youth, with a rather clumsy use of his feet, a coat that was too short in the sleeves, a rough crop of brown curls, and a somewhat wind-burned and freckled countenance.

Before this I had not thought of looks. At school the girls I knew had seemed to think me handsome enough. I was like the rest of the boys, wearing the clothes which had been bought in our little town. But now I thought a great deal about myself, and when I went down to dinner I observed with interest the young men who sat in the lobby and at the tables in the dining room. My father had given me some money to spend, and while we ate our dessert, I asked my uncle:

"Could I buy a suit like these city fellows wear with my $20?"

He was in a good humor. "You keep your money and I'll fix you up with a good winter outfit. I have just put through a deal that ought to land me on Easy Street."

I protested that I could pay for my own things, but uncle was insistent. He took me on the following day to a place on the avenue and bought with a lavish hand. We were leaving town and he had the clothes sent at once to the hotel. I put them on and went to the capital. I hoped that I might catch a glimpse of Mimi Le Brun, and that she might look at me and find something in me to remember, as I had found so much to remember in her. But though I patrolled the halls and the galleries for hours, I could not find her. And when I got back to the hotel and saw myself again in the mirror in my new clothes, I knew that if I had met her there would have been nothing to remember. I was not of her kind or class. I knew, too, that the best thing I could do would be to forget her. But I did not forget her—either then, or ever after.

My Washington experience changed me in this: that I set my Uncle Jerry's life against my father's for comparison. It seemed to me that Uncle Jerry got the most out of it. He could see the world in his own way. He was free to follow the road. My father was tied by his congregation and his conscience. I might agree that my father was the finer man, but Uncle Jerry appealed to my imagination. In my mind's eye I could see him always as I had seen him in the old hotel, with his air of prodigious enjoyment, his gay and gallant bearing. Yet, I wanted to be like Uncle Jerry while I was young. Perhaps when I was old it might be different, but age was so far away that I did not have to think about it.

I found myself restless, wanting things, impatient of my father's point of view.

"Don't you ever long to travel, Father?"

"Why don't you?"

"I have my work."

"I should think you would hate to be tied."

"We are all tied, Jerry."

I am sure, however, that he understood what was the matter with me, and tried to find an outlet for my energies.

We camped, I remember, for a week that summer in the woods. The days would have been dull for those accustomed to more exciting adventures, but there were glimmers of sun in the little lake, the water was limpid and lovely and swept by the fragrance of pond lilies, and my father in his holiday mood was very good company.

It was one night under the stars that I asked him:

"Why didn't Uncle Jerry marry?"

"He could never settle down."

"I believe I am like him, father."

"I hope not."

"Why?"

He brought his answer out after some hesitation. "He hasn't fulfilled the promise of his youth, Jerry."

"But he is rich."

"Is he? No one can be rich with a starved soul."

You see how old-fashioned we were, even then, to talk of souls. But to my father and to me souls were as real as the stars in the heavens or the lilies in the ponds.

I was not willing to admit, however, that Uncle Jerry's lack of soul was a handicap. "He seems to get a lot out of things."

"What things?"

"Oh, well, good times and all that."

"Good times aren't everything. Being good and doing good are important. And I should hate to think you would be satisfied to look upon life as your Uncle Jerry looks on it. He is my brother, and I love him. But I don't want you to be like him."

He brought out the last sentence with the passionate force which made him such a compelling preacher. I have often thought that if he had had a church in some big community the world would have heard of him. His sincerity was absolute. He believed what he spoke. His life was narrow, but his mind roamed in broad spaces, and as for his spirit, it touched at times the far horizon.

We fell then, I remember, into a long silence. I broke it to tell him what I had never told before.

Poems That Live

"MY HEART IS A LUTE"

Alas, that my heart is a lute,
Whereon you have learned to play!

For a many years it was mute,
Until one summer's day
You took it, and touched it, and
made it thrill,
And it thrills and throbs, and
quivers still!

I had known you, dear, so long!
Yet my heart did not tell me why
It should burst one morn into
song

And wake to new life with a cry,
Like a babe that sees the light of
the sun,
And for whom this great world has
just begun.

Your lute is enshrined, cased in,
Kept close with love's magic key
So no hand but yours can win
And wake it to minstrelsy;
Yet leave it not silent too long,
nor alone,
Lest the strings should break, and
the music be done.

The children cried so when his

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to another nasty day, but Fall presents them frequently along with the glorious, so we take them with as little complaint as possible. Rather sleepy, for the night before had remained up unusually late working for the Legion at the Armistice Day party. All that work for a net of only about $30. But $30 to the Legion post is a lot of money and almost everyone was satisfied.

Met Leslie May at the post, he being in his usual good humor. Came a note from Charlie Gilmore inviting the scrivener, along with a score of others, to be his guest on a trip to Hillsboro to inspect that ville's boulevard lighting system. Charlie wrote that his company has a proposition to offer that will make boulevard lights possible for Roundtown.

Here comes Pat Yates with a copy of Colliers and calling attention to a cartoon by George Shellhase showing a customer in an explorers' outfitting store. One clerk is saying to another, "This gentleman wishes the correct wear for a trip to Circleville, Ohio." As Molly might say, "It ain't funny George." At least it isn't unless one knows something of what prompted the artist in the drawing. Remember the last day of the Pumpkin Show? How nice the weather in the morning, and then what happened at night? Well, George and several other representatives of the Crowell Publishing Co. came to the ville for the show, dressed as folk should dress for reasonable Fall weather. In the late afternoon the mercury went into a nose-dive and then came a terrific snowstorm. No wonder that the artist wonders what should be worn on a trip to our ville.

A. W. Taggart, who was supervising embalmer for the A. E. F. and who selected the unknown American Soldier, is dead at Omaha, Neb. He was a relative of the Taggarts who formerly lived here. And that reminds me of Fred Clark, the mortician, who has asked that the diary carry a suggestion to state highway officials that speed warning signs be placed near the entrance to Forest cemetery. Folk who visit a cemetery generally have their minds on persons other than themselves. When they leave our cemetery they drive onto a street that also is a state highway, one that almost any time greatly resembles a speedway. Traffic there should be slowed to the minimum.

Missed the Tigers in their last game of the year, fearing malady if I braved that downpour. Was delighted by the victory, about which I heard at the plant. Home, then, and to bed at a reasonable hour.

Conservation League's Show to Be on Nov. 29

A unique experience in the lives of the children of Circleville and Pickaway county will be enjoyed Nov. 29 in the Cliftona theatre when "Little Men", a presentation of the Clare Tree Major Theatre Co., will be offered. The Child Conservation league of Circleville is sponsoring the entertainment.

Circleville has been chosen as one of the cities which will enjoy the performances of the company this season. The Clare Tree Major unit is from New York.

"Why, they're real people. You can almost reach out and touch them," exclaimed one amazed little girl, who had known nothing but motion pictures. It was her first introduction to real theatre, her first thrilling adventure into flesh and blood make-believe. Now, with a half a million of her fellows, all the way from Hous-ton, Texas, to Appleton, Wisconsin, she awaits impatiently the season which will bring again these exciting experiences of living theatre.

It is 14 years since Clare Tree Major, after years in the profes-sional theatre as actress, producer and manager, sent out her first company for children. In that short time, despite depression and taxes, this movement—and there is nothing like it in the world—has grown and expanded each season until now it takes four sepa-rate companies to fill the en-gagements demanded by children and their parents in the playing area. Each year this area is in-creased to take in as many new towns as possible. Each year more towns, further afield, write to New York begging to be included in next season's plans. And each year thousands of children are added to the tremendous audience served by the plays.

The actors are adult, profes-sional players. Children are not especially interested in other children. They are with them all day long. They are absorbing and intensely interested in the relation between children and those strange, pro-hibiting people inhabiting the adult world. So the real children's play is mostly adult.

ARMISTICE DAY ASSEMBLY HELD

"Peace and Preparedness," an address by John D. Barricklow headed the Armistice Day assem-bly program given Thursday morn-ing by social science classes.

Mr. Barricklow, although a pro-duct of four years' military train-ing at Ohio State and at the pres-ent time a member of the Reserve Officers' training camp, is devoted to the causes of peace and pre-paredness.

He stressed the importance of maintaining an adequate stand-ing army and reserve forces for the sole purpose of defense.

A high point in the program was reached when Helen Evans, so-prano, sang "My Buddie," famous war-time song.

At 11 minutes after 11 o'clock a bugler sounded taps and the stu-dent body stood in silence in mem-ory of the war dead.

Ruth Clark and Regina Steven-son tabulated the answers given to a public opinion questionnaire circulated among the townspeople by members of the social science classes. The questions asked con-cerned selective draft, mobiliza-tion of industry in war time, Japan's side in the Sino-Japanese conflict, and other questions of public interest.

Editorial

"Why should I study art? I can't draw a straight line!" Have you asked that? Well, whether you know it or not you are a de-signer, for everyone is. Art doesn't consist alone in drawing. Art is beautiful living, and living is en-riched by developing one's knowl-edge of color and design.

Everyone uses color and design every waking moment. It is the first thing you see when you open your eyes and the last thing before closing them.

There are simple laws of color and design that can be learned. There is nothing mysterious about it. Every one can draw well, but every one can and does use color and design, and one can learn to draw as easily as he learned to write.

The desire for beauty is a basic human need, and the history of civilization is an art record. Man has always desired beauty and, though many times his ideas have resulted in architectural mon-strosities and ridiculous styles, he has waded through to a higher level of appreciation.

America is awakening to the im-mense value of art in our nation-al life and this came about through business rather than through the schools. Now we are developing our own designers; no longer de-pending on foreign talent, so we find it is a necessary subject in our public schools.

Art in school must cover a wide diversity of interests, for it must be a "doing" subject, not just theory. The casual child must be trained along with the gifted one.

The teacher of art must be a student of education, for through correlation and co-operation, art work becomes a help, binding all subjects to it, and should and does make every subject more interest-ing and valuable.

An art problem requires as much thought as an arithmetic problem and, though results may seem crude, the ideal is before us, and we strive toward the goal of a higher beauty.

HITLER MAY ASK BRITISH GUEST ABOUT COLONIES

Viscount Halifax To See Der
Fuhrer Thursday, Berlin
Believes

MANY TOPICS POSSIBLE
Four-Power Combination
Sought In Europe

BERLIN, Nov. 13 — (UP) — Germany intends to raise the question of colonies when Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council in the British cabinet, visits Berlin next week, it was said today in well informed quarters.

Lord Halifax, on an "unofficial" visit to an international hunting exhibition, is expected to arrive here Wednesday and to remain four or five days. It is probable, informants said, that he will see Fuhrer Adolf Hitler, Thursday.

German leaders, in talks with Lord Halifax, foresee three subjects as the principal point of discussion, it was said:

1. A western European peace treaty.

2. The necessity — as it is regarded here — of allotting to Germany some at least of the colonies wrested from her under the Versailles treaty.

3. The Far Eastern situation.

German and Italy alike, aside entirely from their "Berlin-Rome axis" of co-operation, have long sought a four power combination, including themselves, Britain and France, to make secure the peace of western Europe, and specifically excluding the Soviet union.

The conspicuous lack of success in past conferences is prominent in German minds. Nevertheless, a disposition was shown today to look favorably on the prospects for success of the talks which Lord Halifax is to engage in.

THEATRES

Luisa Rainer is a fairly even-tempered individual.

But the quickest way to upset her emotional equilibrium is to call her a second Bergner, a new Garbo, another Dietrich or what-have-you. Her views came to light during the filming of "Big City" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in which she co-starred with Spencer Tracy. The picture opens a 3-day engagement at the Cliftona Theatre Sunday.

"One of the biggest dangers in Hollywood is becoming typed," said the dark-eyed Viennese. "That is bad enough, but to be called a second this or that is cruel!"

STORY OF SEEING EYE

"Dogs against darkness." That's what they call the eyes-for-the-blind German shepherds (not police dogs) of the Seeing Eye, whose story is so human and so fascinating that it has been chosen by Calvacade of America for the first of a series of repeat broadcasts, selected by popular request. The drama of the Seeing Eye, which will be heard again on the Nov. 17 Calvacade, was first broadcast on Dec. 2, 1936.

Morris Frank, pioneer in the work of training dogs and men in the early days of the Seeing Eye organization, will speak on the program. As always, he will be accompanied by his own dog-guide, Buddy, the first dog trained in this country to lead the blind.

CAREER CHOSEN BY MORE FIRST YEAR STUDENTS

NEW YORK (UP)—The freshmen entering Hunter College this fall have a variety of ambitions. One plans to be a veterinarian, one hopes to enter the diplomatic service, another is interested in archeology, and two wish to become missionaries.

Eighty-seven percent of the freshmen have chosen a career, according to a questionnaire answered by 1,060 of the 1,200 entering students. Many of these will train for teaching. However, the number who hope to enter the fields of social or laboratory work show that Hunter is no longer predominantly a college for teachers. An increasing number want a college education as preface to a business career.

The choice of majors by the freshmen is an index to their vocational aims. Science, mathematics, business, and social science are the favorite majors.

Of the 340 students who intend to work at outside jobs while attending college, the majority plan to do so.

In activities outside of college for pleasure, freshmen showed such unusual interests as rifle shooting, puppeteering, microscopy and collecting birds' eggs. Reading, however, was by far the favorite hobby.

PAYNE FUNERAL

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. in the Northend Mission, the Rev. L. S. Metzler officiating for Mrs. Margaret Payne, who died Friday. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

THAT simple no trump consideration of desiring to be the declarer when you hold plenty of kings or queens, but preferring to have your partner play the hand when you have more than your share of aces, can also apply to a suit bid. If the opening lead comes through a guarded king, it can cost you two tricks right off the reel. If instead it comes up to the king, only one trick is lost at the outset. On a lead through a queen up to an ace, you have only one stopper if the king sits over the queen, but when it comes through the ace to the queen you always have two stoppers.

now responded with 5-Diamonds and South 6-Diamonds, but at the other North called 4-No Trump, South 5-Spades and North 6-Spades.

Where North played the hand at 6-Diamonds, a heart was led and the contract was immediately set. The other South declarer, fearing a lead through his heart suit, decided to bid 5-Spades after the 4-No Trump, to give his partner a chance to see where the safest spot was. Six spades was agreed upon as the final contract and as the lead came up to South it would not have mattered if a heart had been led, as only one trick would have been lost in that suit.

CIVIC COMMITTEE PREPARES FOR COMPLETE CENSUS OF UNEMPLOYED

U. S. EMPLOYEES TO PASS CARDS NEXT TUESDAY

Effort Made To Have Every Eligible Person Fill In Questionnaire

HAYS ADDRESSES GROUP

All Information To Be Kept In Confidence

Members of the civic committee, to assist postal employees in conducting the national unemployment census from Nov. 16 to 20, met Friday afternoon to discuss means of contacting and furnishing educational service to those persons who should make reports on the registration.

A Hulse Hays, Circleville postmaster, explained that one of the major problems of the department is in reaching persons who have no addresses and supplying sufficient cards at homes to include all the unemployed. There are groups of unemployed in settlements around the city who have no addresses, as well as persons in tourist camps, hobo camps, etc.

Many Sources Used
Information concerning the census will be sent through the schools, churches, and various organizations which are represented in the civic committee. Arrangements may be worked out to have registrations at the schools. Persons who are to fill out the cards may contact members of the committee in their neighborhood, D. H. Marcy at the county relief headquarters at E. Main street, or report at the postoffice. Mayor Graham was appointed to work out arrangements to have information about the census given at the local theatres. Posters on the census will be displayed in churches Sunday. Information will be given at meetings of various organizations next week.

Persons who experience difficulty in understanding the questions are urged to contact members of the committee or the postoffice. Mr. Hays said, as every effort will be made to have the census as correct as possible in all details.

Meet in Lamb's Office
Members of the committee met in the law offices of Sterling Lamb, chairman of the group.

Mailmen will deliver the registration cards to all homes next Tuesday, Nov. 16. Completed cards are to be mailed before midnight on Saturday, Nov. 20. Additional cards may be obtained from the postoffice or members of the committee. No postage is needed.

Names of signers of the reports will not be published or made public in any manner. Information on the cards is confidential.

The card used for the report lists 14 questions. Each question is fundamental for an understanding of employment. To a large extent, the card is self-explanatory, and in most instances can be filled in by the individual without assistance.

Each person in every family should fill out and return an individual Unemployment Report card to the postoffice if he is included in any of the groups described in the following paragraphs:

a. All persons who are totally unemployed, able to work, and want work. Included in this group are the following:

(1) Persons who have worked for pay, who are able to work, and still want work.
(2) Persons who formerly had their own business, farm or professional practice, and no longer work at it, who are able to work, and want work.
(3) Persons now looking for their first jobs.

b. All persons who are partly employed, able to do more work, and want more work. Included in this group are the following:

(1) Persons working part-time at regular jobs, who are able to do more work, and want more work.
(2) Persons employed part-time on irregular work (including casual workers) who are able to do more work, and want more work.

c. All persons working full time or part time on projects of WPA, NYA, CCC, or other emergency work projects which are supported by public funds. Included in this group are the following:

(1) Persons working on WPA projects or on emergency projects of other Federal agencies under the Works Program.
(2) Enrollees working in CCC camps.
(3) Persons employed on NYA work projects.
(4) Persons receiving NYA student aid.
(5) Persons working on emergency work projects conducted by the State or local

YOUTHS CAUGHT IN COUNTY FOR THEFT, CONFESS

leged kidnapers in custody a few hours after Dr. James I. Seder, former superintendent of the West Virginia Anti-Saloon league escaped from his prison Friday.

Travis and Booth were arrested first. The bureau of investigation in Washington announced that they had confessed.

Seder was kidnaped Nov. 1. On Nov. 6 a note was mailed in the Huntington postoffice to his son, Arthur Raymond Seder, of St. Paul, Minn., demanding $50,000 ransom. He went to the G-men and nothing was known of the kidnaping until the minister escaped his crude prison where he had suffered horribly from exposure, and two of the alleged kidnapers had been arrested. It was emphasized that no ransom had been paid.

Seder was taken to a hospital where, despite his age and his suffering, he was recovering rapidly from his experience.

$30 Check Bounced

Booth once rented an apartment from Seder and had become friendly with him, on one occasion, G-men said, Booth got Seder to vouch for a $30 check which subsequently bounced. On Nov. 1, the agents said, Booth went to Seder's home here with a $60 check to cover it and asked the aged man to step outside to an automobile, which belonged to Booth's father, to meet some friends.

Atkins and Travis were alleged to have been waiting in the car. Seder was forced to enter it and was driven to the abandoned coal mine seven miles from Wayne, W. Va., there, the agents said, he was imprisoned in a cold, damp chamber 30 feet underground.

Weakened by exposure and shock, he managed to crawl out yesterday. A farmer heard his cries and found him lying exhausted near the entrance to the mine. His clothing was covered with blood and he had received numerous scratches and bruises.

According to police records, Booth was sentenced to five years in the West Virginia penitentiary in 1936 for a sex crime, and was pardoned after serving 10 months.

She was off the Atlantic coast, but her position was not obtainable, MacKay said.

FARM BOY ADMITS DEMANDING $1,000 FROM MOVIE STAR

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13—(UP)—

A 20-year-old Michigan farm youth confessed early today, according to the sheriff's office, that he mailed a letter demanding $1,000 of Marion Davies, motion picture star.

The youth gave the name of John Timney. He was jailed on an extortion complaint filed by federal agents.

Timney admitted writing the note when arrested in front of a hotel, deputy sheriffs said, and announced that he would plead guilty in federal court today.

The note was reported to have been delivered to him in person by Miss Davies, who was to wear dark glasses and meet him in front of a South Main street theater.

Miss Davies was warned in the note not to notify authorities, "or you'll get it," deputies reported.

Timney said he came here three weeks ago from Detroit and was jobless and hungry.

"I was broke, and I thought I'd get some money this way," deputies quoted him as saying.

"I thought I'd write to Marion Davies because I figured she has more money than anyone else."

"But I didn't expect to get caught at it."

STATE CENTERS SHERIFF'S TRIAL ON DYING WORDS

C. E. Holzer, Surgeon, Says Late Williamson Blamed Fowler For Attack

admitted when the judge overruled defense objections and the surgeon repeated the alleged statement.

Dr. Holzer said Williamson repeated the charge "out of a clear sky" the following morning, omitting the word "finally."

Under questioning by Defense Counsel Curtis Reed, the doctor agreed Williamson was in a "very deep coma" when admitted to the hospital and conceded that "a man suffering from a severe head injury may tell a story that he believes to be true when it merely is a dream fancy with scarcely a word of truth."

In direct testimony, however, Dr. Holzer said he believed Williamson was rational when he made the statement.

Dr. Holzer said the fatal blow appeared to have been administered with an object with a smooth surface with no projections. He admitted under questioning that Williamson's injury may have resulted from a fall to the sidewalk.
